LAMENT

Where have the singing poets gone?
They were not wanted and they went away
And there is no song to greet the dawn.
Where have the singing poets gone?
Like mist as though they were not born,
Like ruined roses past their day.
Where have the singing poets gone?
They were not wanted and they went away.

Michael Largay