The LOWELL COURIER.

SATURDAY EVENING, JANUARY 2, 1863.

VOL. II.

THE LOWELL COURIER.

Published WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, AND SATURDAY, at the office of THE LOWELL COURIER, Children's Square, Lowell. Entered at the Post Office of Lowell, Mass., as Second Class Matter. Subscription price, $2.00 a year; single copies, 5 cents. Mailed postage extra, 3 cents per copy. The Courier is sold in Boston at a premium of 6 cents per copy. The Subscribers' List is on file with the Proprietors, who reserve the right to determine the limit of their edition. The Courier is printed on superior Paper, and is published by the proprietors. It is sold at all the bookshops and dealers in the city and country. It is sold by subscription at the price of $2.00 per year, and is available by the year. It contains about 125 pages of text and illustrations, and is furnished to the readers in its entirety, including all the columns and issues. It is a newspaper of wide circulation and influence, and is considered to be one of the most important and influential newspapers in Massachusetts and New England.