Providence Defeats Textile 42-23 (Continued from Page 1)

In engineering, we are proud public by Alfred T. Fisk (of the Boston Herald), and mr. T. H. Fisk, of the Board of Education.

On the whole, the students all agree with a good job in general that there should be such a thing as efficiency in the fundamental subjects in modern industry, and that it is necessary to train students in such a course as this is being offered, and that the aim of efficiency in production from the point of view of the students.

The Big Ten of American colleges is, with the greatest student registration, to give some slight indication of the amount of distribution of the fundamental subjects in teaching or in their study. Of the total 28,000,000 student enrollees in courses in 215 institutions, the average enrollment per college of 4,000 and 197 institutions is 1,971.

In all, 243 of the 473 colleges and universities give instruction in one or more of the fundamental marketing subjects, and 78 or 16.2 percent of the institutions offer a course in three or more.

The Gin in Bargain

"If your mother bought seven bunches of grapes, the dealer’s price being a quarter a bunch, how much money would you have left if you took the seven bunches of grapes and divided them among your parents, yourself, and the two younger brothers?"

"You never can tell," answered Tim, who was at the head of the class. "Are you great at figuring!"
