WE'RE OUT FOR BLOOD

You've seen it before, but it will happen again. There is a new campaign to get students to donate blood. It has a purpose and a very important reason. The campus and local blood donors have a great opportunity this Thursday to make a big difference. The red cross is looking for donors who have type B blood. In order to participate in this campaign, it is necessary to be a current student or faculty member of the university. The campaign is being coordinated by the Office of Student Life and the Health Services Department.

The campaign will run from 8am-5pm on Thursday, April 28th, at the Student Union Building. All students and faculty members are encouraged to participate. The goal is to collect as many donations as possible in order to help meet the demands of the local hospitals. The donations will be used for life-saving medical procedures and to save the lives of those in need. The campaign is open to all students and faculty members who meet the eligibility criteria.

All donors will receive a free t-shirt and a certificate of appreciation. Additionally, there will be a raffle for a chance to win a $100 gift card to a local business. The raffle tickets will be available for purchase at the event and will be drawn at the end of the day.

In order to participate, please make sure you are eligible and available on the day of the event. Please bring your student ID or faculty ID to verify your eligibility. The blood drive will be staffed by trained medical professionals and volunteers.

Let's come together and support this important cause. Your donation can make a difference. Thank you for your support and we look forward to seeing you on Thursday.
THE TEXT
Published twice monthly during the academic year, except on holidays or during vacations. Lowell Technological Institute, Lowell, Massachusetts. Opinions expressed in this publication represent the views of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the position of THE TEXT.

MANUSCRIPTS
ASSOCIATE COLLEGIATE PRESS
Cocktail, Herbert Zarlinsky
Business Manager
Student Council
News Staff
Edward Kaplan, Editor
Fred Leman, Managing Editor
Thurber Thorson, Assistant
Ray DeMaris
Features
Charles Sullivan, Lee Damon, Thomas Marcella, Arthur Stein, Arthur Vekos, David Parker, Ronald LaFluer
Sports
Mickey Nitro, David Cranford, Stuart Merritt Katz, Thomas Kelly, Arthure Warteisen
Photography
Editor
Stephen L, Kaplan
Art
Bruce Gay, Art Director
Science Faculty Advisor
Howard Brand
Faculty Advisor
Prof. Louis Eitok

CREDIT??
L.T.I. is fortunate to have among its student body numerous individuals who belong to many school organizations. Each organization has a competition of credit and the competition is supposed to belong to. On the other hand, however, there is the pseudo- extravert who is little more than a name on a piece of paper and a ghost at the meetings and activities of the organization he is supposed to belong to. He knowsingly or unknowingly is draining the potential from the function of the organization he is credited with being a member of. For example, John Doe was a member of the Student Council. He signed up at eleven school organizations. He hardly ever shows up at any meetings, if any meetings are held. His personal appearance is accomplished and his phone calls to the organization he is supposed to belong to. He is perfectly capable of doing the job he is being credited with doing. However, it would be more effective if the credits were not awarded to those who are not contributing to the organization.

The consequences of this type activity are significant. If a school organization has a percentage of such individuals making up its membership, the organization as a whole is inefficient. If such an organization is such an individual, that organization is little more than a ghost type function. It might just as well not exist and it should not exist in such a state.

We of the Student Council are attempting to initiate a fresh policy within this organization in an effort to get top rate student newspaper in gear before the end of this semester. Recruiting of new talent is presently being held. As Student Council, we hope that many of our students will join our organization and aid us in the running of the newspaper.

THE SEARCH FOR COOPERATION

by Jim Manos

In the animal kingdom, an effort as an offering is born. The newborn animal begins its life in a state of total dependence on its parents. It is at the mercy of its environment. It is at the mercy of its parents. It is at the mercy of the world. It is at the mercy of the world.

The animal begins to train by learning to survive. It begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.

The animal begins to train by learning to eat. It begins to train by learning to find food. It begins to train by learning to find food.
CAMPUS PERSONALITIES

Did you ever eat roast beef? Probably very few of us can answer yes to this question, and one of these few, if indeed there are any such people, I would be inclined to say that he is a native of the Philippines. The one time I had the privilege of meeting a Filipino, he was a very friendly young man who was in the United States for a short time. He was very impressed by the quality of the food served at the cafeteria, and he mentioned that he had never eaten roast beef before. I would have to agree with him in that respect. It is my impression that roast beef is not a common dish in the Philippines, although it is certainly a popular one in the United States.

Leo, who is a familiar individual to all who frequent the L.T.I. campus, is a student at the University of California at Berkeley. Leo is one of the most interesting people on campus, and his wit and charm are highly appreciated by his fellow students. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and he is also involved in several campus organizations, including the Debate Team and the Model United Nations.

Leo is a native of the Philippine Islands, and he came to the United States to study law. He is currently working towards his J.D. degree, and he hopes to return to the Philippines after he graduates. Leo is a very talented musician, and he plays the guitar and sings in several campus bands.

Leo is also very interested in the culture of the Philippines, and he has written several papers on the subject. He is a member of the Asian American Studies Program at the university, and he is actively involved in spreading awareness of Asian American issues on campus.

Leo is a very popular student, and he is well-liked by his professors and peers. He is a true leader and a role model for others on campus.

THE SEARCH FOR CO-OPERATION - excerpt from page 2

THE MINUTeman by David Parker

Much has been said about the Philippines, but very little has been written about the country's rich cultural heritage. The Philippines is a country of great diversity, with a population that includes people of various ethnic backgrounds and religions. The country is also known for its beautiful beaches and vibrant culture.

The Philippines is a country of great importance to the United States, and the relationship between the two countries has been a source of contention and conflict in recent years. The United States has a long history of involvement in the Philippines, dating back to the Spanish-American War in 1898. Since that time, the United States has been involved in various conflicts in the region, including the Vietnam War and the current conflict in the Middle East.

The Philippines is a country of great importance to the United States, and the relationship between the two countries has been a source of contention and conflict in recent years. The United States has a long history of involvement in the Philippines, dating back to the Spanish-American War in 1898. Since that time, the United States has been involved in various conflicts in the region, including the Vietnam War and the current conflict in the Middle East.

INVESTMENT page 3

The personal element is larger here than in any other country, maybe larger than any other country. There are some who think that the United States is a country of opportunity, but that is not always true. There are some who think that the United States is a country of opportunity, but that is not always true. There are some who think that the United States is a country of opportunity, but that is not always true.
THE TEXT ON CAMPUS

by Les Damon

What ever became of that old black apron we had the misfortune to observe up to two semesters ago? Good heavens; the corridors are filled with all sorts of interesting novelties, politics, and unmentionable phenomena, high, some students openly admit interest and spill the; the glom, it appears, is being loudly thwarted. Let's take a quick look at some of the mayhem currently prevailing on campus.

The Student Council, under the direction of president Bert Bonfili, has intelligently required all organizations to submit an official roster of members to the council's file, in addition, a financial report of each organization is required. This is the first time that the Student Council has required that an organization should subsidize any organization in any way, for any reason. Why then, the wild-eyed collectors of funds? The Student Council is the backbone of the student's campus government, but it still leaves much to be desired; e.g., the activity fee, for all students, is about forty-five dollars. We must pay for the college please as well as the college. Now turn your eyes to the end of said year book; what doth it profit us to do so? there are no saner ends and one's rein to the end of the book, does one proceed to contact any of the aforementioned kites? We are told that this book has no cover, and the orientation bit, This is a lot of bread for a barge, a bence, and a book. But why trying to explain that.