WELCOME TO LTI

Message of Welcome—President Martin J. Lydon

It is a pleasure to extend a formal welcome to the approximately one thousand freshmen arriving on campus this week to begin their college careers at the Lowell Technological Institute.

Starting these careers is one of the most important steps you young people will take, and you should exploit this opportunity which now presents itself to you. As you begin this most constructive period in your personal lives, you are coming to an institution which in itself is in the process of construction—academically, physically, socially, and in every other way.

Our Trustees, Faculty, Administration, current Student Body and Alumni all are anxious to see you succeed and are willing to help in every way. These various elements of the Institute Family join with your parents, relatives and friends in wishing you well and in expressing the hope that this current academic year will mark the beginning of a future which will be both personally satisfying and socially rewarding.

Philip Morrissey—Student Council President

"Many Opportunities, Take Advantage of Them"

Two years ago, when I was a freshman, a friend who was then a junior and very involved politically, asked me to attend a Board of Trustees meeting that afternoon. Curiously, I accepted. Looking around during the meeting, I noticed four students present. In the minutes of the meeting, there was listed under "Also present: the President of the Student Council, the editor of the Text and two unidentified students. Just a short two years later, the minutes of the Trustees meeting now read "a large number of students" or "many students.

Lowell Tech is undergoing a radical metamorphosis. Just three years ago, ROTC was to be mandatory for all freshmen. Two years ago, a student member of the Board of Trustees was elected and for the first time, women were allowed into the male dorms and vice versa on an unrestricted basis. Last year saw an increase in the number of students on the Board of Directors of the bookstore. Presently, the Trustees are contemplating a change in policy to permit alcohol on campus for those of legal age.

In all of these reforms, students were the catalysts, the primary movers (except for the Student Trustee). Without the student’s pressure, it is doubtful that many of these reforms would have been instituted.

The Class of ’75 is entering into a changing college, changing in all aspects: physical, educational and social. It is up to you to participate in and to further it.

In closing, I would just like to advise you to become involved in activities here at Tech. There are many opportunities, take advantage of them. Good education is infinitely more than a degree in engineering or business. Please don’t exhibit the symptoms of a robot or a computer after being here a while. (Tech has been accused of producing them.) Be involved, be active. We need you.

Phil Morrissey, ’73

Get Involved

If you want to express yourself through the written word—the Text is your medium, if the spoken word is your thing—WLTI—the student radio station is open to all interested.

Academically, you should learn as much as possible while here, your degree is an implement through which constructive change can occur on all levels.

This is your school now, do with what you will. Utilize to your best advantage the services offered here, Audio-Visual Society films, athletic events, speakers, concerts, counselling, financial aid, etc. Work for change, a non-mandatory food plan, unlimited access to a student bookstore, student run vending machine service, and a student responsive Institute. A united student body is less of a student body that can serve itself and this school at the same time.

If you consider LTI as a four year necessary evil to enable you to grab a high paying job, you’ll do no good for this school and even less for yourself.

So remember when you’re sitting around complaining you’re just perpetuating our problems. Join the organization that will help to institute the changes you feel are most urgent here. Get involved. "If you’re not part of the solution you’re part of the problem."

IN PEACE

EDITORIALS & OPINIONS

What do you expect to gain from a college education?

You have undoubtedly asked yourself the question: "What will higher education do for me?" Presently you may have strong, definite reactions and answers, or you may not yet be fully certain about your own individual aims and goals, and your reasons for seeking a college education.

The primary purpose of a college is academic. But, remember learning takes place at many levels and in many situations, education is not only a formal activity.

Do not let Lowell Tech be solely a place for memorizing data or mastering a vocation. Make it, instead, your route to intellectual maturity, a means for developing the ideas, insights, and values which form a permanent personal capacity for intelligent thought and action.

By the time you reach graduation you will have been prepared to use knowledge well for yourself and more especially, by this time you should have developed an awareness of the interests and needs of Science, technology, and industry in the society in which we live.

It is hoped that during your four (or five) year stay here you will: increase your competence, that is become trained in the arts of inquiry, the subject matter, and the methodology of the particular area of education you have in mind.

Confront your conscience and those of others regarding which may be unacceptable and unsatisfactory about the things which are in society and the world.

Accordingly, as your college career develops, you should periodically stop and ask yourselves: "What am I learning to do? How am I broadening my frame of reference? Where do I stand on the live issues of the day?" In this context, you are encouraged through use of the LTI, faculty, facilities, and upperschlemmer to be conscious of the challenge of opportunity. For your college years can pass too quickly. It is not likely that most of you will again enjoy comparable comfort, leisure and resources for developing your capabilities, broadening your knowledge, and testing the combination of intellectual and ethical responsibilities that is the difficult goal of education.

Soph Class President Welcome

On behalf of those of us who remain from the Class of '74, I welcome you to Lowell Tech. All of you choose LTI for different reasons, some for lack of money, some for lack of marks, and still others for the school itself. At any rate you're all in the same boat, following the same course, pulling together as one crew and you'll make it better. Don't give up the ship over the top of your upperclassmen above you. Get through it. Don't think you've got to go through it alone, there's no such thing as a one man crew on a ship like this.

Get involved in your school, it's growing quick and only you can insure this growth's continue. Tech needs students, not only educational supplies. Don't take without giving back. Number one, get your education, but number two, give your education to help those who need it, classmates, "Townies" and organizations on campus. Knowledge costs responsibility.

Calling All Freshmen

This year you're going to be badgered left and right to do things, by teachers for marks, from home about money, by the administration for selling your last name wrong, etc., etc. This is just to let you know it's coming and the best way to deal is get into at least one extra-curricular activity, whether it be a sport, drama, science, or a fine organization. In joining any club you'll find friends in the membership who can help you in your basic needs, as well as aiding you in developing the skills of the group.

Whatever you decide it's your school, and it can be as you want it. It can be busy and do-nothing, or it can move, but only if you move it. BE INVOLVED, BE RESPONSIBLE!!

Dean Leo F. King: "The results... a better campus"

It is with pleasure that I again welcome all Students of L.T.I. to the campus for the Fall semester. As we look ahead to the coming academic year, I am sure that we shall be as successful this year as we were last year.

The administration, faculty and your fellow students are here to help you achieve a better life in every aspect of your life.

The past year has had its problems—small problems that we met and overcame. I believe the results from these have helped us create a better campus.

I look forward to the challenges of the coming year and feel that the entire college will have a better year because of the improvements we have made.

It is our desire to continue to improve and be more successful this year. Thank you for your support and cooperation.

Orientation Committee Welcome

To the Class of '75

The Orientation Committee wishes to welcome you to the LTI community. This week we have planned a myriad of events and tests to try your endurance. Truthfully, all programming was done to inure an informative and enjoyable week to culminate one season and open another.

Grips, greats, and questions: please open up and tell us how we are doing. This is the first year your Student Council and Circle K have sponsored this and we'd like your open, honest comments. Don't hold back.

Orientation is merely an opening of our house to you. We're showing you the ropes, and trying to see you through the first week, while you are getting acquainted with each other. In this way you'll be able to help us when we're in trouble.

Be ready for wise upperclassmen or dumb professors who will try to put you down. When things get bad just look around and ask for help. Don't wait till it is too late. Double check everything. Above all think before you act. Before you say yes to everyone who is ready for a wild time. Think before you cut classes or trip out. A lot of kids did not even aren't around to say so. Find someone in this school who you can talk to and who knows something about this place. Get to know where everything is and who everyone is quick. Don't hide away all your either. Get in a club or organization. Above all, keep your head straight regarding academics—without good marks you won't have any need to worry about the others.

ORIENTATION COMMITTEE

FATHER JOE Flynn and myself live at the Center and are available to help you as much as we can with problems that may arise during your stay at L.T.I. Feel free to walk in and summon us via the buzzer at the foot of the stairs or call us for an appointment at 4-0151.

On Monday evening through Thursday evenings of Orientation week (Sept. 6, 7, 8, 9) student coordinators of these various programs will be at the Center each evening from 6:00 P.M. onward to explain each program in more detail and to take you on a tour of the house. Refreshments will be served. Father Flynn and myself hope to have the opportunity to meet you personally then or at another time during the day when it may be more convenient for you to visit the house.

On Saturday evening, September 11, from 7:30 to 11:30, the Cellar Door Coffee House will begin. A folk group will provide entertainment. The Sunday Mass schedule begins that evening also. Plans for the Full outing will be announced.

1975 may be a long way off but the time rolls on fast. If you really involve yourself in the educational process which is the chief reason you are attending college, I hope the Newman Center and the programs conducted here will be a positive and humanizing contribution to that process. To the extent that you participate in at least one of these student-run programs, you will be helping yourself as well as strengthening the college community.

Read the Text each week for more information on these programs or as well as the other events which will be held here at the Center.

Beware of the Blind Date

The time's a boy plenty plenty, gone to LTI, and the time he get married, he is guaranteed to come across a certain called "Blind" date. Blind dates come as a accompaniment of pair and digits... all infrequent.

Blind dates are found everywhere. Their names appear in discarded address books, and their numbers on telephone books. Blind dates are arranged by everyone, including graduates, relatives, and gates who up until you are what they're stuck with—women your best friends.

It's a pity on blind dates. Popular girls bridge them, popular boys ignore them, parents outline them, Debs Abby choose them, and gay stray dead ends protect them... sometimes.

A blind date is business with a man or her matching. Females with tattooed eyes, Eunice with a hint of a mustache, Shelly Cook in sweater pasts and Oz Benke in bl-bargains. She's the full across the street flirt looks like the boy next door.

A blind date is never a show girl, a model, a student mate, or a father's daughter. She is always a man's side, sometimes closely enough from out of town, or a member of college's field hockey team.

A blind date is a composite: She has the good of Eunice Taylor, the figure of Richard Barone, the head of Dr. Zondo, the eloquence of Casey Stengel, the facial expression of Alfred L. Neumann, and the sense of the New England Patriots' locker room during halftime.

A blind date isn't interesting boys, right highs, moonstruck with, little compliment, some attention and lots of respect. She doesn't particularly seem for impact, laughing out loud when you first meet her, introducing you to her friends on her blind date rule, taking her to Supermarket Openings, asking her to get the check, or taking her to Lemon's Lane and... leaving her there.

If you take a blind date, you can't lose. If you eliminate your evening just by showing up? If she laughs out loud during (the thread)? Who does what? Vicky Vip-O-King!... for collar! And lipstick on her shoe! Who she puts on gasoline to put in! Who she has the reputation of 30-25-3... or on her hog!

If the evening when you take them home, they go twice today to you and thank you, and then she does the fine in your... you should see her the words that millions who have dated blind dates have looked before... CAN I SEE YOU AGAIN NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT?

GREEKS

In the past years it has been the policy of the TEXT to censor articles (fraternity and sorority) we feel to be in bad taste. This year, however, the editors have decided to print all articles as submitted and to refrain from censoring except in extremely flagrant violations. We have concluded that a fraternity or sorority article reflects only on the members of that particular group and not on the newspaper or an organization.

Ed. Note. The preceding is the text of a memorandum sent to the fraternities and sororities expressing the TEXT's policy concerning their articles.

"DEKE"

The Brotherhood of Delta Kappa Phi would like to welcome you, freshmen, to L.T.I. Delta Kappa Phi is a social fraternity with chapters all along the east coast. DK is one of the oldest fraternities on campus. We have been doing our thing at Tech since 1902 and this year will be one of our best. We have Brothers in many of the social activities such as the sports teams, Curtis K, and the popular stuff to name just a few.

As a member of the Interfraternity Council DK won't be running for a couple of months but if you (freshman) need any help on any thing all don't be afraid to stop a DEKE anywhere and ask him. He'll be more than glad to help you!

If you hear someone talking about the community and mention a DEKE, don't be surprised because we are also very active in the surrounding area. We participate in a wide range of activities such as the St. Jude's Fund, the Blood Drive, the Heart Fund and many more.

If you have a question or need a favor, feel free to contact us.

Pi Lambda Phi

From the Land of Pi Lambda:

Greetings to all freshmen, upperclassmen, and others who are here for a thrilling year of schooling at Lowell Tech. If you think thrilling is the wrong word to describe life while attending the Institute, then maybe one ought to visit our house at 77 Livingston Avenue.

Good luck in the coming weeks of classes, and may all your bad exams be scaled up.

Recently, Phi Sigma Rho received an offer from the TEXT through all our fraternity and sorority and permission to submit an obscene online article for that issue, as long as it did not exceed ten-hundred words. Unable to meet these Kriteria, we hereby extend you the following word, "RE... All fraternities, we feel that in a male centered school, it becomes necessary to promote communication, friendship, and unity among the female students. Athletics at Lowell Tech

Your main purpose for coming to Tech, I should hope is to get an excellent education in either the field of Business Administration or Engineering. As you soon will find out, some of you too late, that your education will only be what you put into it. Lowell Tech can only provide the means for your education, you have to provide the initiative to make those means work to your advantage.

Before you will be allowed to graduate from LTI, you will have to do those means to get your education. All too often through the "Tech Student" is satisfied in only furthering his mental capacities and at the same time neglecting his physical needs. What is this "Tech Student" going to do when he finds himself twenty or so years from now suffering from ulcers, a weak heart, or a possible nervous breakdown because he doesn’t know how to relax and relieve the tensions that his job places on him?

Now is the time, during the next four years, to develop your athletic skills in sports which have lasting value and are most likely to be enjoyed in adult life. The athletic program at Lowell Tech is an important part of your LTI education. By using the facilities and facilities of the athletic department, you can gain through intramural and intercollegiate sports important physical fitness and recreational skills while at the same time you are providing yourself relaxation from the tensions of academic life.

The same thing applies to athletics as to academics; Lowell Tech can provide you with the facilities and the means, but it is up to you to use them to your advantage.

In January of 1947, Lowell Tech took a giant step forward in the area of athletics with the opening of the Thomas F. Costello Physical Education Building. Up until that time the indoor athletic facilities consisted of the third floor of Southwick Hall which would be alarmed if during a class up there someday you look down and discover that you’re sitting in the three-second-lane.

The new Costello building has two large gymnasia of equal size, with the main gym having a seating capacity of over two thousand, a collegiate size swimming pool, a wrestling-judo room, a weight-training area, a gymnastics area, two handball courts, three squash courts, and a rifle range. The athletic fields behind Costello presently consist of a soccer field, a quarter mile cinder track, a baseball diamond, two softball fields, and four tennis courts, which are flooded for ice skating in the winter.

The gymnassium are open for student recreational use from 9:00 am to 9:30 pm weekdays, and from 10:00 am to 3:00 pm on Sundays. By simply presenting your LTI ID card to Gus or one of the able-bodied assistants in the issue room, you can borrow almost any type of athletic equipment you need. Some of the sports that have lasting recreational values and that Tech has organized clubs or teams for are: handball, squash, tennis, track, swimming, golf, gymnastics, bowling, and skiing.

Lowell Tech has also provided for the athletic needs of the doinnant students who are necessarily here 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Behind the Leditch and Bousquet dormitories, there are two basketball and two tennis courts which are lighted until approximately 1 am. each night. Also the Athletic Association has set aside for of the money you pay into the activity fee the purpose of purchasing football, basketball, softball, and bat equipment for the use of dorm students. This equipment is controlled through the resident advisor, so you’ll probably hear more about that.

For those of you who would like organized sports, LTI has two extensive programs in intramural and intercollegiate athletics. The intramural program, which conducts a wide variety of sports and activities throughout the year, is basically run by students under the direction of Coach Callary. Last year’s in the 28 activities sponsored by the intramural program, the student participation was 2,632. The best intramural team at the end of the year is awarded the R.W. Livers Award and the outstanding intercollegiate athlete is awarded the W.W. Vanalp Award.

On the intercollegiate level, Lowell Tech fields 17 teams, 14 of which are Varsity. This year new legislation by the NCAA and the ECAC permits all college division teams (LTI) to use freshmen in varsity sports. Throughout the year, THE TEXT will attempt to keep you up to date on the startling facts of three intramural and intercollegiate sport activities.

Everyone of you at the beginning of the year paid $2.75 to the Athletic Association through the Activity Fee. No longer a matter of complaining, like some Tech students, that you are not getting your money’s worth, I would suggest strongly to you to take part in some way of this program. Also, by paying your Activity Fee you are entitled to free admission to all LTI home athletic events. Several years ago spectator attendance was extremely poor at Tech. Last year attendance was more tolerable gains. You can not use the excuse that Tech teams aren’t any good since last years Varsity teams recorded 125 wins against 78 setbacks. Lowell Tech has a lot of excellent athletes; take some time off and come down and watch them.

In closing, if you spend your four years at Tech with your nose in a book, you will be an educated, but otherwise unhealthy and helpless person. The choice is yours. Study and do well in your courses; relax and have a fun four years at Lowell Tech.
