Stewart Udall To Speak At Tech

In an era seemingly running headlong into humanitarian oblivion as the year 1964 rapidly approaches, it is more than merely a public service to announce the upcoming visit of a man of such recognized humanity as former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall. It is a venerable relief.

In "Other Cries" (1953), Mr. Udall advanced the proposition that "seen must grasp completely the relationship between human suffering and the fullness of the American earth." The phrase summarizes Udall's own past history in the fields of ecology and the general improvement of the human condition. Udall was the instigator of VIEWPOINT, a pioneering international consulting firm devoted to the formulation of a better environment.

Mr. Udall is an active lecturer to university and business audiences on environmental topics and the energy crisis. The latter will be the subject of many of Udall's remarks on his September 19 visit to Lowell.

At 8:00 A.M. Cumnock Hall will be the site of a general address by Mr. Udall. The talk will be but one of a half dozen Lowell appearances for the 1948 graduate of the University of Arizona's School of Law.

Mr. Udall has entertained the Soviet by Bob Blumberg post Yevstushenko; arranged for Robert Frost's reading of his own poetry at John F. Kennedy's inauguration; brought live entertainment back for Ford's Theater in Washington for the first time since 1865; and brought Frost on a trip to Russia. His "Other Cries" was a bestseller.

Mr. Udall served as Secretary of the Interior for both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, and in that capacity was largely responsible for the initiation of what has grown to today's serious concern for the environment.

Udall's Lowell visit is sponsored cooperatively by the Lowell League of Women Voters, Lowell Tech, Greater Lowell Chamber of Commerce and the Human Service Corporation.

The visit is additionally under the aegis of the "Community Visitor Program" of the John F. Kennedy Library in Cambridge. The Program's main aim is to bring key officials of the Kennedy administration to the greater Boston area to participate in a series of "giving and take" meetings with local citizens.

As symbol of his approach to life Mr. Udall has climbed Mount Kilimanjaro as well as Mount Fuji in winter. He is a healthy blend of professional competence, personal concern, and involvement.

Student Senate Rolls On ...

by D. S. Szen

Last Thursday the LTI Student Senate held its second meeting in its new Student Union Building "Senate Chambers" and handled a variety of topics from old business to new business. Then they adjourned.

Some of the more important topics covered during the two hour legislative session are recapitulated below.

The Student Union Building Committee, after much reported work, expects that they will have the game room on the first floor of the Union open and operating within the next two weeks. This room will be equipped with the latest and newfangled games and amusements including pool tables, ping-pong, football, air hockey, card tables, dart ball, Uphart, TV ping pong, and air basketball. To ensure that you have all the fun and equipment that you want, student game room attendants are needed to administer the good times. If you have what it takes, then pick up an application in room 416.

Good news for all you LTI Hawk fans. Instead of coming to listen out to the game against Western New England College in Springfield next Saturday, take a Student Senate provided bus. The Senate discussed the pros and cons of expense versus convenience and convenience won. So, after reading the Lihers Hawk article on page seven, hop on the bus and be convenient. Your Student Senate will thank you.

Next the student solons tackled the Cultural Committee report. The sophisticated is presenting two speakers this week. On Wednesday at noon, Stewart Udall will address a group that you have already read in the article at the top of this page and Thursday, Henry Brown will speak at the Library Multipurpose Room at noon concerning the United Farm Workers' Boycott.

Senate President, Jim Bender, reported back to the Senate that the Lowell State Student Council decided to accept the $400 that the LTI Senate voted to reimburse on a controversial "loan-investment-pay-off-investment-support" of $1000 towards last May's Spring Carnival.

The Cheech & Chong Concert (Concert? maybe, because, since... Oh well, it's up to a committee is still on for October 4th. Plans are progressing and tickets should be available before the 4th or sooner in the main area.

New Academic Policies

There have been some new developments concerning academic policies here at Tech. One of the more prominent ramifications concerns the transferring of credit from one college within the institute to another. The cumulative rating of a transfer student shall include only those subjects accepted for transfer by the appropriate college. This for the most part will help with raising the overall cum but on the other hand it may lower it. An example of the latter situation occurring could be a student who attained an A+ in a couple electrical engineering courses who decides to transfer into business. The A+ grades will not be included in his cum. The non-transferable credit is entirely dropped from your record.

An academic petition is needed for this particular process. Remember that this ruling could be detrimental so think and be absolutely sure it can help you before you decide to take definite action.

If there are any ideas or suggestions concerning the academic community here at Tech, this senate committee is here to help you and we'd appreciate any new viewpoints.

All You Have To Do Is Run

Election time is fast approaching and hopefully participation will reach an all time high. This senior class has two openings for seniors, and the sophomore class is in need of a secretary. There are seven essential positions, a class president and a secretary treasurer open for the freshmen to fill.

The spirit on the upperclassman level shows a general lack of concern on the part of the students. All you have to do to run is get 50 signatures from members of your class and submit them to the Dean's Office by Wednesday, the 26th of September. You are now nominated. Posters are made for campaigns, but they must be taken down immediately after the elections.

The voting itself will take place on Monday, the 1st of October, and, hopefully, everyone will be out to vote. You can enter the election booth, they will be located outside the auditorium. Voting takes no time at all. "Power to the people" may be a title cliché, but this is your chance to put democracy in action here at Tech. Make an effort to drop by the hall and let your voice be heard.

Editorials & Opinions
The State of the Institute

We now have one building in the final stage of completion and the other classroom buildings are slowly progressing. Looking at the L.T.I. campus from across the Merrimack, there are a series of sharp contrasts — the old and the new, in some cases, the desired and theathi qualities. The weather, for student may be quite astonishing, and understandably so.

In the past, class have been held in a variety of construction company student dormitories, ranging from the nuclear center to the impromptu setting of fourth floor Painter's SouthWest — the old waiting room. Student organizations gathered meeting rooms where they could, if they were not fortunate enough to have one of the three rooms in the basement of the old library. Even conditions there were bad, small cramped rooms with wall and furniture deteriorating after many years of hard use.

The dormitory situation was no better. Smith and Eames, completed in the early 50's are the only definite signs of old age. In many places, wallboard has crept through cracks, possibly the result of a flaked ceiling. Our own operated society is the source of much frustration, exhibited by slated soda machines, improbable washing machines and malfunctioned telephones. T.V. lounges have been described "as students mysteriously make bands out of their dorm rooms.

Leach and Bourgogne are not excepted. Confined in the 60's, they have reached premature senility, similar to the older dorms. As for the Anatomies, some have become cases for the Dept. of Public Health.

But, a welcome addition has prevailed in the past two years. It consists of the successful efforts of the students to revitalize their decaying dorms. Once the administration looked at its furniture for battleship blue and drab brown, greens, purples and reds and blues appeared. Floor residents painted hallways and lounges, complete with art gallery designs.

In some places, stair and tap systems were installed. The Anatomies proceeding in creating homes out of their dorms, complete with student management.

Now we have 18 story white elephant. True, the building is not completed, either physically or administratively. There have been incidents of mud into the hallways, and the snow that is falling out of the dorm situation is getting worse before it gets better. But, aesthetically the structure has achieved an effect students and administrator have always desired. The walls colors and the furniture that swivels and lifts back and forth. Lounges are on almost every floor. And there is more "public" in the dining room than in the dorm dining hall.

This recent incidents bring up the question of room entry by the residence hall's counseling staff. After the incidents of room entry last year, this is a situation administrator are concerned with not willing to let occur again. Since student rooms are not be replaced by the contractors, they will have to be reviewed by some method. Possibly another party will be involved in the room entry.

Unfortunately, safety seems to be a mutual point of a test staff. This is occurring now and petty disturbance is not expected to be far behind.

It is not necessary at all.

There are new buildings, not even completed. Think. What does "Student Union" mean? These 18 stories serve not only you the bed of the L.T.I. student community — and much longer than the four years that you are here.

Rising Prices?

"You ain't heard nothing yet, folks."

— Al Jolson, 1927

Food is necessary to a person's existence. If food is good and more people will tend to eat it. Will someone today notice the fact that England. The studio men are at the price of the meat plan and it really went up 55 shrimp $2.97 to $2.64.

However, there's no truth to the idea that Jonny's was an added $30 for the first 40 students to the Housing Authority. After that, it's been levied.

It was distributed over both students. That means that $42 was spent for Hall C's first year. Of course, the dorm students are in forced to pay $134. This represents an increase of food prices have gone up, but that at least in Jonny's haven't dropped much. Workers, for instance, are still getting about the same wages as last year. Some students find a $264 year's tuition seems almost trifling at this price, but what if the education is good, they wouldn't mind the price.

Affirmative Action?

Last year the L.T.I Board of Trustees accepted an Affirmative Action program under threat of federal sanctions, of course. Since, then the school has been out and about, as the law, avoid complying with either the spirit or the letter of the agreement, which was supposed to increase representation of women and minorities at Tech.

If the new administrative roadblock has been the refusal to hire a permanent G.O. office, the administration agreed to fail that position by July. It is now September and the office has been hired. None appears likely to be around near future.

What about?

New Obscenity Law Obscure

During the summer, Mr. Nixon's Supreme Court issued a new set of guidelines on obscenity that will enable states and cities to ban books, motion, plays and motion pictures that are ruled to be "obscene," without the help of the federal courts, even if they might be acceptable elsewhere.

Now, everything with a letter in it can be judged — by anyone. As long as whether or not it "appeals primarily to the prurient interest of the average person according to contemporary community standards.

This means that each city, town and county now can decide the definition of obscenity for its own area. It means that what might be obscene in Boston, might not be in New York. A book or movie might be available for public consumption in Lowell and be barred in Chelmsford.

Elected school boards and overzealous "law and order" candidates will have a golden opportunity. There is a campaign platform of not being "soft" on Fitzgerald or Hemingway. People who vote extensively on further than the next election can now go after works of art and language that have been hallmarks of greatness and they could be telling us what we can't read or see.

No one, not even the Supreme Court, has ever really defined pornography. No one has yet proven that people who read erotic books or look at erotic pictures go out and commit pornographic acts. A book or public lecture might be at one time as obscene.

Obviously, a lot of the trash that you can find in " combating some" bookstores and theaters is offensive to anyone with half a brain. However, no one has ever said that you have to go in and read the magazines or look at the books. It hasn't been " dirty" books or " obscene" movies that are destroying the country as a sexual will drive. It's been things like the poison of drug addiction and the mindless violence that stalks the streets. It's been things like an immoral administration and an arrogant President. It's been " obscene" actions like the administration's crusades and the "perverted" act of throwing people out of jobs to try and reduce inflation.

It hurts the country when it is easy to buy a bandana than a pornographic magazine when it is easier to buy a ticket for a theater the a book. It hurts our country when cops and judges escalate more on being book critics and movie reviewers instead of instruments of social justice and equal application of the law. How about the facts of the Nixon Administration who permitted the loosening of the constitution according to their own "community standards."

The Supreme Court decision doesn't mean just the possible end of the "combat Zone." It means the possible end of surfactant and conformity and the loss of the intimacy of ideals and words. It means doing violence to the expression of thought and feelings.

It means that Nixon's court is telling us what we cannot read. And tomorrow they might be telling what we have to.

Courses By Newspaper

by Eugene Kolodziej

Since when has a newspaper been an appropriate medium for a course taught at a college or university? Since over two hundred universities across the nation are offering classes with college professors and college discussions at a cooperative education program, the number continues to increase. The use of the newspaper as a medium to present courses for college credit is currently being considered by many faculty members and deans of institutions of higher learning.

Career Counseling and Placement Resume

The office staff would like to take this opportunity to welcome the Class of '74 back to the Campus and hopes that your career aspirations can be met with the assistance of this office.

As you continue your studies, you will find your free time dwindling because now you are seeking employment as an addition to being a full-time student. Therefore, you should begin to allocate your time carefully so that either obligation suffers.

Today or any time hereafter, you can visit the office to obtain your copy of the Placement Manual. Claimed in the manual are several helpful articles, sample resumes, and an alphabetical and chronological schedule of interviews for the first semester. Another schedule will be distributed in December that will contain the second semester's interviewing schedule.

Since submitting our interview schedule to the printer, there have been several changes. They are included on the insert sheet in each manual. Please check these changes against the original schedule to insure you are totally informed.

On FT/2000 at 12:00 noon in Cannon Hall, there will be a Senior Placement Convocation. The purpose of the meeting is to update you on college policies, interview schedule requests, and any other information vital to you before the recruiting season begins.

You are invited to stop into the Placement Office at any time for assistance in preparing your resumes or to discuss your career objectives and the best method of achievement.

The majors requested by the companies visiting our campus for the first semester will be posted on the Career Counseling Bulletin Board. If your major or degree level has not been requested, you will not be permitted to sign the schedule. This does not preclude the opportunity of you personally contacting the company on your own.

We wish you success in the coming academic year in both career and employment objectives.

Grapes of Wrath Revisited

by Jim Young

As the sun seemed down begins to cast a pale light, hundreds of deserted cars crowd along the valley floor. Flags and banners attached to the vehicles whip and snap in the breeze.

The cars pull up to the entrances to fields where grapes are grown. The drivers sit patiently and slowly hands drape across the vehicles, tires up the flags, and men and women of the fields walk along the edges of the "Hugli" ("stripes").

These people are the grape farmers of our country. They work ten to fourteen hour days in the hot banana, the sharp edge that on the man that owns that field yet must live on under $3,000 a year for their back-breaking efforts. They work the second- or third-rate harvest in the country and barely live on the average size of forty-six to fifty acres in some places...

When they finish one job, they must pack into their very cars and search for new unpicked fields.

The living conditions of the farmers are as deplorable as their working conditions; 95% of the migrant housing has no running water or bathroom facilities. The children can't escape this type of life; they have to work with the force of their families. They work, their children, 12,000 men and women in California, Arizona, and Colorado are sacrificing everything for their own children.

Farmworkers are on strike for a better life for their families, 12,000 men and women in California, Arizona, and Colorado are sacrificing everything for their own children. AFL-CIO, everyone works for the union, right up to the union, the farmworkers, Chavez, in a former grape picker, makes $2.50 per hour, room, and board.

But the workers have tremendous opposition. Their employers called "owners" or "handlers" usually refer to the police and the courts to break the strike. Now they have invited into a foreign union, the Western Conference of Teamsters, by signing "sweetheart" contracts (contracts which are signed without worker consultation, no electoral, because of the double taxation of the workers who have struck for their own union, the UFW.

The farmworkers began a nationwide boycott of non-UFW grapes and lettuce, in order to put pressure on the growers. Many consumers are helping. Here in Eastern Massachusetts, 75% of the supermarket chains carry only UFW lettuce and grapes or none at all. The majority of the workers in this area that the refusal to help the farmers in their decision. The supporters of the boycott urge you to stop at any store except those that sell only non-UFW grapes and lettuce that don't have the UFW logo eight-shy of the consumers who eat pasta, who eat pasta. If you are interested in reading the 20-page of the farmers. We want more information, call LFT coordinator, Jim Young.

San Diego Viewpoint

Fewmies entering Princeton University are presented the self-styled challenge of scaling off the Colonial Hill from Nassau Hall. The self-proclaimed challenge sees a few new faces freshen together in a common cause, and provides a pretext for entreating young minds to some less familiar disciplines.

UCLA has provided a similar service, though by no means with the support of the administration, with The Wall Street. However, he may be. The establishment itself, a near legendary tradition when he began perusing around that campus, with a blue wand distinguishing him in his confederacy, and exposing himself to unwary co-ed late at night in the signature surrounding Rich Hall.

The State's Freedom Film Festival likewise draws creative minds to be fully rewarded for their efforts. The film at State is for licensing Film Arts majors to make their own barbiturates, which are then rated for overall pictographic content by select superordinate audiences.

San Diego is also the hub of most great distribution in the U.S., Panamanian, Columbia, Cuban, and not a little European stuff comes north through Tijuana into own own town, where it is collected and channeled by buyers for bar-fung markets, from L.A. to New York. Needing to buy the best stuff is kept in San Diego for local consumption. U.C. San Diego freshmen, therefore, are known for placing sometimes huge amounts of four material in percement rebars, space tasks of the cathedrals, or in the heating systems of the older buildings which still use central heating.

Understanding Film

This is the title of a film course held in eight sessions (October 9-November 27) at the Business, Law, Hood, and Barlow Libraries. Several will be held weekly on Tuesdays from 6:30-8:30 pm.

Aside from an introduction to the aesthetics of film, this course explores the unique qualities of the medium and explains the weaknesses of film for those who have watched and enjoyed movies (half-breeding). Thus, the eight sessions will utilize both feature and short-length films obtained exclusively from the library collection.

Stimulating material ranges from classics by Sergei Eisenstein and Eisen Pudovkin to contemporary work by Charles Eagen and Jordan Belson.

The instructor for the course will be Dean Rosen, photography critic of The Boston Globe. He is known as having taught at the Green Witten Film School in Cambridge and a frequent commentator on the Museum's Film Program.

Information concerning the course can be obtained by writing to Understanding Film, Dept. of Public Education, Museum of Art, Mass., MA 02115. Or contact can be made by calling the Department of Public Education at 267-3100, Ext. 226.

THE TEXT

Sedatives are drugs which induce sleep. When taken in small doses they can temporarily modify tension and anxiety in some people. When used without close supervision, the possibilities of taking increased amounts and becoming dependent are present. In street parlance, the sedatives are also called "good buys," "sleepers," and "downers." The barbiturates constitute the largest group of sedatives.

There are medical uses for sedatives. In addition to inducing sleep and relaxing tensions, sedatives are used for psychosomatic conditions such as high blood pressure and peptic ulcers. One barbiturate, phenobarbitol, is useful as an anti-convulant. An ultra-short acting barbiturate, diethylbarbiturate, is used as an anesthetic.

What kinds of people abuse sedatives? People who have difficulty dealing with anxiety or who have troubles with insomnia may become psychologically dependent upon sedatives. Therefore people under excessive stress, or those who cannot tolerate ordinary stress are vulnerable. A few years ago sedatives were drugs of abuse for adults. Now they are being prescribed more and more frequently by teenagers and pre-teens, which may represent a "tide-up" epidemic. Some sedatives, most commonly the barbiturates, are taken by some persons who utilize them to suppress the hiccups or to substitute for it. Also persons who take stimulants and become jittery may take sedatives to calm their tension.

It is dangerous to take sedatives in large quantities. Ordinarily, the person goes into a coma. If the person is tolerant to large amounts, he may remain awake and appear intoxicated. Speech and movements may be uncoordinated. Skilled tasks are performed slippahgly and without precision. Judgement and perception are impaired. Confusion, slurred speech, irritability and a unsteady gait are often seen in chronic users.

One mode of suicide that is common is to take an overdose of sedatives. Accidental deaths due to taking a large number of sedatives intended may also occur.

Barbiturates are physically addicting. Tolerance to the effects of barbiturates increases with continued withdrawal. Large doses of the drug produce a withdrawal syndrome which is usually much more severe than from heroin, and must be done under close, medical, attention. Barbiturates are not the only group of sedatives with a danger of addiction. Much is known about the barbiturates can be applied to the non-barbiturates sedatives and psycho.

When dependence is severe, sudden cessation of barbiturate withdrawal causes effects similar to the use of the drug is stopped. A strong desire to continue taking the drug is present after a few weeks of taking large doses. Withdrawal from large doses of barbiturates is usually much more severe than from heroin, and must be done under close, medical, attention. Barbiturates are not the only group of sedatives with a danger of addiction. Much is known about the barbiturates can be applied to the non-barbiturates sedatives and psycho.

Under no circumstances would I be tempted to propose the following: The students of Tech (first a benefal wish would do) should cooperatively establish with some other group of creative artists, directed thrill, or, as a last resort, some generally-recognized act of immediate destruction which would show post-pulp spirit some challenging way to say "I ain't!"

Certainly our own movie show (I managed such a dastly effort for six months before deciding on school) could do much better. An overgrown tree on the small hill behind Campus Hall would at least ease the wanton animosity of serious students.

Mind you, a request such as this could easily be abused. Distraction is basically wrong. Ideology, however, does not, to me, imply harm or bloodshed which can be contained and indeed got to very good use. Let us unite behind some firmgear. Should clear be a blue bond with white stars, the ample foliage with which the whole East Coast seems to be blessed. Remember, after three years of leg-marking at UCLA, the Blue Bond is still at large and apparently enjoying immortality.

Rally around some techy. One of us has got to be permitted enough or clever enough, or brave enough, to institute a legend about Tech among neighboring schools. Perhaps, if we are lucky, our Colonial Bell, our ski Club, our Film Festival, our Football, or whatever we come up with, will be sufficiently clever to be Inserted even in California – where nobody has ever heard of Lowell Tech.
The Alpine Club

The Alpine Club held its first successful meeting of the year last Thursday evening in the newly formed dormitory of 30 new students. Some outdoor activities are becoming increasingly popular with the people of Tech. The club is over 8 times as large as it was last term. This year's club president is in charge of the event, Robert Martin, B.S., P.E., of Pittsfield. The meeting was held at 7:00 p.m. in the main auditorium of the new dormitory.

The members of the club met and elected officers. The election was held on the basis of the number of votes received in the recent election. The officers elected were: President, Robert Martin; Vice-President, Samuel Bull; Secretary, Arthur Flanders; and Treasurer, John Smith.

The club plans to hold regular meetings every Thursday at 7:00 p.m. at the new dormitory. All members of the club are welcome to attend.

Our raffle drawing will be held at the party. If you need a ride, just call 459-3135 and we'll send the "courtesy" ride over to pick you up. We're looking forward to meeting you.

Circle K

This year the L.T.I. Circle K club is holding meetings at 1:00 on Thursdays in S.U.B. Room 5. We need ideas for service projects and fundraising events for the school and the community. Last semester, our bike raffle turned out to be very successful, netting us over $10,000 which was donated to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. So if you want to get involved in a campus organization, come up to S.U.B. Room 5 this Tuesday at 1:00 and see what we're all about. All students are welcome.

What's Happening in Intramural Sports

This is a year of experiments at Tech. Not only are there new buildings and a co-ed dorm, but also, this is the first year that the women enchants are required to take physical education. The requirement can be made because now, there is a female gym instructor, Pat McCoy, since there is a woman on the staff, gym classes for women only, can be offered. Therefore, a girl does not have to be in a co-ed gym class; she can always choose an all-girl class.

This past week, the program has started. In order to have an unlimited choice of classes, a female freshman must pass the same two tests that have always been given to the males. Unfortunately, most of the women did not pass both of the tests and therefore, they no longer have an unlimited choice. They must either take a beginner's swim class or a physical conditioning class. However, this created a little confusion in the P.E. department. Pat's schedule had already been made up. Anticipating that most of the girls would pass the tests, she had scheduled only one class of conditioning and one of beginner's swimming. Therefore, the girls were told to sign for whatever conditioning class fits their schedules. But, during a meeting of the P.E. staff Thursday morning, Pat asked to change her softball and tennis class. Since most of the freshmen women had originally been scheduled to have gym at that time, all the girls who had signed up for conditioning classes with other instructors can now switch into Pat's class. This will enable all the girls to take all-girl classes with a female instructor.

This is a copy of Pat's revised schedule:

Skiers !!!

The LTI Varsity Ski Team is holding its first meeting of the year on Sept. 17 at noon. Anyone interested in skiing racing is urged to come. No previous racing experience is required. If you can't make it, contact: Mark Slowon, Box 170 or Kate Ricard, Box 2364.

Cross Country Season Hopeful

In two weeks Lowell Tech will embark on its most ambitious cross country season when the Terrier harriers open away against St. Anselm's. Tech has 12 listed dates including dual and dual open competition. Included are appearances at both the Easters and the New Englands.

Last year's Harriers under the capable coaching of George Davis posted a 11 and 3 mark in dual competition. Tech's only losses were at the hands of Brandeis, Plymouth State and WPI. These three turrets are back on the schedule along with newcomers Boston College, MIT, Keene State, Amherst College, Worcester State and Framingham State. Missing from the schedule are three teams that lost less than Tech.

In assembling a new crew, Davis is not finding it too difficult. The team is a mixed crew with a few returning faces. A few seasoned veterans are returning, while a few may be difficult but certainly the goal of the enthusiastic and talented Tech squad. Lack of the top floor players from last year with Captain Jim Lents heading the list, Roberts selected as the most outstanding athlete in the last year will be closing out a brilliant four year career.

Pushing. I'm just the way will be number two man from last year Rick Lindell along with Brad Hurst, John Pawlak, Ray Pineau and Brad Roberts. Gerry Gunning an outstanding middle distance star in track will be giving cross country a try and could really surprise. Peter Phillips did a tremendous amount of summer work and is also ready to push closer to the top spot. Along with this group of experienced men, Coach Davis expects a lot of help from several outstanding freshmen that are out for the team.

Crew On The Merrimac

The LTI Crew Club under the supervision of Coach Thomas K. Kodma is quickly developing into a strong team for the Merrimac Fall Regatta. With 20 returning varsity oarsmen and a big class of freshmen and a few very bright, the Graduate students the club finds itself stronger than ever before. Coach Kodma assures the club that this year's team will have a successful and interesting season. The club's biggest date this season will be the National Regatta held here in Lowell Saturday and Sunday October 13 & 14 on the Merrimac River just beyond Pinkerton falls. The National Regatta will take place at 3:00 p.m featuring the Merrimac.

The first meeting of the Intramural Council took place on Tuesday, the eleventh of the month. The meeting was presided over by Coach Bob Calbert, the faculty director of Intramural sports, and Bill Eggers, the student director of the program. There were about twenty members present, with a large number of them coming from the footballers of Tech. There was a curious lack of representation from the women's miniature dorm teams which, hopefully, can be attributed to the fact that several teams may not have been aware that there was to be a meeting. It is noted that intramural sports are open to all students and faculty members at Tech. Several important decisions were made at this first meeting:

It was decided that instead of a softball season there would be a tournament. It would be a double elimination event that would open to the many teams so chosen to enter. This tournament would not be counted towards the Dean's Cup Trophy, which is awarded to the team that gains the most points throughout the year. The rules to be followed would be strict slowpitch rules. Any teams that wish to enter the tournament should fill out a roster and hand it in at the equipment room or directly to Coach Calbert in Rm 308, at the gym. Rosters for touch football, soccer, and tennis should also be made out. All of these rosters are to be in by the 18th so that the league may get under way by the middle of next week. It should be noted that it is the duty of the manager to see to it that all of the players on their teams do not violate the rules that are posted at the lower entrance to the gym, on the right hand bulletin case. Throughout all of the sports, some very simple courteousness is expected and required, there being:

1. If the playing date of a game is to be changed, the coeducational teams must do at least twenty four (24) hours in advance.
