American Felt Co. Displays Products

The American Felt Co., in conjunction with the Design Office of the company, has provided a display of felt materials and products of interest to engineers. The exhibit, located in the closet of the President's office, consists of a special display, showing the diversity of felt materials from raw fibers to finished products, such as customized fabric, with the emphasis on the variety of products that can be made of felt. Several descriptive booklets are included in the display.

This descriptive show was set up in cooperation with Dr. G. R. Harris of the Design Office of the company. Mr. Guisinger has assumed the responsibility for the exhibit. Mr. Guisinger, working at the first of March, during the heaviest period of the winter, after working up his display, remained in the office for two or three months to iron out any questions that would come up and to develop his own ideas for the first class. He showed considerable initiative and ingenuity in developing the exhibit, and it is expected that he will make a return to his office.

The American Felt Co. presents an interesting exhibit which describes the process of feltmaking in an easy-to-understand manner and which gives a list of some of the many uses of products. There is also a very interesting color section, showing the marketing of the felt products. According to the story, a certain Mass. miller is depicted on the felt, with the words, "We are the best millers in the business, and we are proud of it." The story is continued by the words, "And we are the best millers in the business, and we are proud of it."

This legend reminds us of the strength of the American Felt Co.—a strength found within a circle.

The story is followed by a description of the American Felt Co.'s history, which has been most interesting and educational. It will be available for a few years, which will set the stage for a major change in the industry.

Textile Removes Another Antique

Two or three weeks ago another section of Textile's old standby's, the balloon cradles, which have occupied a large space in the Cotton Fuller Room, fell to a victim of the bunch's, which was yesterday removed from the collection. The balloon cradles, which are of heavy steel plate, were equipped with two lamps for decoration purposes.

Three of the balloon cradles are now in the possession of the American Textile Company, and they will be used in the new office building.

The confederation is piped back to be used again in the felt room, but since the winter varies with temperature and weather conditions, and with the weather of the world, it is necessary to store it under certain conditions. At the same time, it is not yet determined why the old balloon cradles were made of such large size; since it is estimated that one small 15-gallon tank could easily fill a balloon cradle.

Textile has been working on this project for some years, taking valuable space in the school, and working in only about 50 percent of its capacity.

In 1960 when our school was first completed, American Felt Co. was involved in the construction of the school.

Student Council Requests Pickup Explanation

Senior Class President John P. McConnell presents an explanation of the completion of his duties for Clarion reporting.

American Felt Co. Displays Products

The American Felt Co., in cooperation with the Design Office of the company, has provided a display of felt materials and products of interest to engineers. The exhibit, located in the closet of the President's office, consists of a special display, showing the diversity of felt materials from raw fibers to finished products, such as customized fabric, with the emphasis on the variety of products that can be made of felt. Several descriptive booklets are included in the display.

This descriptive show was set up in cooperation with Dr. G. R. Harris of the Design Office of the company. Mr. Guisinger has assumed the responsibility for the exhibit. Mr. Guisinger, working at the first of March, during the heaviest period of the winter, after working up his display, remained in the office for two or three months to iron out any questions that would come up and to develop his own ideas for the first class. He showed considerable initiative and ingenuity in developing the exhibit, and it is expected that he will make a return to his office.

The American Felt Co. presents an interesting exhibit which describes the process of feltmaking in an easy-to-understand manner and which gives a list of some of the many uses of products. There is also a very interesting color section, showing the marketing of the felt products. According to the story, a certain Mass. miller is depicted on the felt, with the words, "We are the best millers in the business, and we are proud of it." The story is continued by the words, "And we are the best millers in the business, and we are proud of it."

This legend reminds us of the strength of the American Felt Co.—a strength found within a circle.

The story is followed by a description of the American Felt Co.'s history, which has been most interesting and educational. It will be available for a few years, which will set the stage for a major change in the industry.

Textile Removes Another Antique

Two or three weeks ago another section of Textile's old standby's, the balloon cradles, which have occupied a large space in the Cotton Fuller Room, fell to a victim of the bunch's, which was yesterday removed from the collection. The balloon cradles, which are of heavy steel plate, were equipped with two lamps for decoration purposes.

Three of the balloon cradles are now in the possession of the American Textile Company, and they will be used in the new office building.

The confederation is piped back to be used again in the felt room, but since the winter varies with temperature and weather conditions, and with the weather of the world, it is necessary to store it under certain conditions. At the same time, it is not yet determined why the old balloon cradles were made of such large size; since it is estimated that one small 15-gallon tank could easily fill a balloon cradle.

Textile has been working on this project for some years, taking valuable space in the school, and working in only about 50 percent of its capacity.

In 1960 when our school was first completed, American Felt Co. was involved in the construction of the school.

Student Council Requests Pickup Explanation

Senior Class President John P. McConnell presents an explanation of the completion of his duties for Clarion reporting.

American Felt Co. Displays Products

The American Felt Co., in cooperation with the Design Office of the company, has provided a display of felt materials and products of interest to engineers. The exhibit, located in the closet of the President's office, consists of a special display, showing the diversity of felt materials from raw fibers to finished products, such as customized fabric, with the emphasis on the variety of products that can be made of felt. Several descriptive booklets are included in the display.

This descriptive show was set up in cooperation with Dr. G. R. Harris of the Design Office of the company. Mr. Guisinger has assumed the responsibility for the exhibit. Mr. Guisinger, working at the first of March, during the heaviest period of the winter, after working up his display, remained in the office for two or three months to iron out any questions that would come up and to develop his own ideas for the first class. He showed considerable initiative and ingenuity in developing the exhibit, and it is expected that he will make a return to his office.

The American Felt Co. presents an interesting exhibit which describes the process of feltmaking in an easy-to-understand manner and which gives a list of some of the many uses of products. There is also a very interesting color section, showing the marketing of the felt products. According to the story, a certain Mass. miller is depicted on the felt, with the words, "We are the best millers in the business, and we are proud of it." The story is continued by the words, "And we are the best millers in the business, and we are proud of it."

This legend reminds us of the strength of the American Felt Co.—a strength found within a circle.

The story is followed by a description of the American Felt Co.'s history, which has been most interesting and educational. It will be available for a few years, which will set the stage for a major change in the industry.

Textile Removes Another Antique

Two or three weeks ago another section of Textile's old standby's, the balloon cradles, which have occupied a large space in the Cotton Fuller Room, fell to a victim of the bunch's, which was yesterday removed from the collection. The balloon cradles, which are of heavy steel plate, were equipped with two lamps for decoration purposes.

Three of the balloon cradles are now in the possession of the American Textile Company, and they will be used in the new office building.

The confederation is piped back to be used again in the felt room, but since the winter varies with temperature and weather conditions, and with the weather of the world, it is necessary to store it under certain conditions. At the same time, it is not yet determined why the old balloon cradles were made of such large size; since it is estimated that one small 15-gallon tank could easily fill a balloon cradle.

Textile has been working on this project for some years, taking valuable space in the school, and working in only about 50 percent of its capacity.

In 1960 when our school was first completed, American Felt Co. was involved in the construction of the school.
Although the threat of mice upon still hangs heavy over our heads, it's not too early to begin planning for the many activities that appear upon the scene toward the end of the school year. Our school subscribes to the belief that the students have seen past experience that certain very enjoyable affairs are coming, and many will undoubtedly be characteristic of last year, although some may differ. In a word, everyone will be ready for the many activities this year will bring the hope of something or other in the minds of some individuals and cast cause them to plan a little more thoroughly. The junior members of the faculty also plan activities for the students. They take the time to read this, will also feel inclined to say that they may, in their first year of T.L., be initiated into some of the more pleasurable moments of College Life.

Besides the increasing activity on the part of the classes and faculties, there are two major schoolwide social functions. These are the Lee Shows produced by the Temple Players, and Upstream Day, sponsored this year by the Student Council. The Lee Show is an ever-liable affair and is either formal or informal as each individual decides (for himself), while Upstream Day is held during the day (a holiday, no less) and is open to all as an informal as the word suggests. The Temple Players offer annually a dramatic production with a touch of can, and this year an innovation in this year, a student director. To be 20-49, I'll be followed by a formal dance for those who are so inclined. It is not necessary for a student to sign up a trip and just go to see the show. However, if a student plans a little dancing round the evening formal attire is a prerequisite. In the past this annual affair has proved to be one of the most successful of all student undertakings. It should be a must for everyone.

Upstream Day, for some inexplicable reason, poses a problem every year for the body which sponsors it. In order to get classes arranged it is necessary here in at least half, the students attend. The stand of the program on this matter cannot be prejudiced. The stand of the students, though, is polluting. Some of the students remembering the previous year that they have had post-Upstream Days, step up the tickets while the ink is still wet. Some of the students are usually financially embarrassed, while these are a considerable number who want Upstream Day to be held, but because they want to go, that they may have a holiday. Upstream Day is a day of outdoor activity, fishing, boating, horseback riding, and many outdoor activities. The program is planned and arranged according to the whims of the individual concerned. No mention of the game of baseball, but if the Kappa Fraternity could provide their own, the midday barhunts, or the buffet supper or even the refreshments that invariably find their way into the hands and the gullets of the students. Therefore, the aforementioned items add up to an enjoyable and memorable day. Now that everyone has been warned of the impending events let's begin planning to participate and not be one of those who fail to enjoy the present day. C'est, I wish I had done.

The Die is Cast
by Don Goffin

So Barry wants to start an island colony? Seriously, Mr. Drummonds, I think he'd better choose one of the other projects. The idea of life on the island is not too bad, and the others are fine, but when they are vicious and vindictive as well as too; Wain a column reviews longer and resentment toward the writer. After all, the writer is the one, since the morning is one of the most remarkable days of the island. I have discovered a fool plot on the part of the faculty. In the past, I've followed the island day and double time to my next, and just about go to bed. I have set up a quarter-deck of the island, and at this time section deals with the processing of animal.
New Boys Officially Named Eames Hall

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees, held on 7 March 1949, our new assembly building, now under the process of construction—was officially dedicated. Eames Hall, in the absence of the late Charles E. Starns, past president of Lowell Textile Institute, President-Emeritus Emeritus Eames was in good health when, in 1949, it was named as a testament to his service and leadership to the Lowell Textile School and before it was founded in its present surroundings. Our quadrangle style of building is largely a result of his planning. During his years, he contributed largely to the success of the Institute. It is felt that this final tribute to his name, in recognition of at least 35 years of service to the Institute, will perpetuate his memory through future years.

Barry Drongmeole To Be Exposed

Due to the presence of public opinion, The TIMES has decided that the hereinafter anonymous individual known as Barry Drongmeole must be made known to all of you. At various times each and every member of the staff from the Editor down to the lowest "leg-man" has been searched of and accounted for in each column. These searches are usually conducted with dignity and respect for the safety of the staff. It is felt between the Editor and Barry, Drongmeole, it must be put out, nothing of the decision which was reached behind closed doors by the Tribune which would make this rag Barry will be just as quoted as you when he reads this. Therefore, if you are of any sex...

Coloring all parts of all kinds COAL ROOM
DRAUTIN, INC. Manufacturing Valves, Castings
Knick Gits
SELECT FOR YOUR LIQUORS FEATURING RADIO STAGE STARS
Continuous Entertainment
DIAL LOWELL 2-8080
170 Marble Rd. Dracut, Mass.
Near Lakeview Park

L. F. TURGOTE & SON
LAURENCE AT LOWELL R. L.
Dorm Judgements

As William夏季 went on, it was the time for review. It seems that the administration of Lowell Textile students has been suffering over the past few years. Last Fall, however, there was a noticeable improvement in dormitory life. This was due to the new dormitory regulations enforced by the administration.

Several students have commented that the new regulations have made their dormitory experience more enjoyable. The regulations include restrictions on late-night parties and the enforcement of quiet hours. These changes have been well-received by the students.

A. T. C.

On Tuesday evening, March 23, the Student Chapter will present a play at LTL. The play is titled "The Great Gatsby," and is based on F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel.

The play will be performed at 7:30 P.M. in the LTL auditorium. Admission is free to all students.

Phi Psi

The regular monthly meeting was held on Tuesday, March 19. The meeting was attended by a large number of members.

Several important announcements were made during the meeting. The main topic of discussion was the upcoming fraternity trip to the Adirondacks. The trip is scheduled for the weekend of May 1-3. All members are encouraged to attend.

Alumni News

At the Board of Directors meeting on March 21, the following report was presented:

The Alumni Chapter has made arrangements for a picnic to be held on Saturday, June 22. The picnic will be held at the Alumni Club. All members are invited to attend.

Also on the agenda was the discussion of a possible reunion for the class of 1949. A date has not yet been set, but members are encouraged to save the date of June 22 for the reunion.

Get the Happy Dance

At the COMMODORE BALLROOM

Dancing Every Wed., Fri., Sat. and Holiday Nights

At the Commode B. Ballroom, we have the latest in entertainment. Our DJ's can play anything from rock to jazz. So come down and let your hair down.

Where you take five

The EMBASSY

A. A. C.

Barry Drumgoole Says...

Reports have reached your editor Barry Drumgoole that the internal affairs of certain individuals have developed into an adverse condition as evidenced by certain actions taken by them.

According to sources, several members of the fraternity have been involved in activities that are considered undesirable.

For instance, a member of the fraternity was recently seen loitering outside the dormitory after hours. Another member was observed engaging in an activity that was deemed inappropriate.

These incidents have caused concern among the fraternity members. It is important that such activities are addressed promptly to prevent further incidents.

The fraternity has taken steps to address these concerns. Meetings have been held with the involved members to discuss the inappropriate behavior.

The fraternity has also reached out to the administration to seek their assistance in addressing these issues.

In conclusion, it is important for all members to be aware of the expectations of the fraternity and to refrain from engaging in similar activities.

Institute Cafeteria

The institute cafeteria offers a variety of meals to its students. Breakfast, lunch, and dinner are available.

For Breakfast

- Fresh-squeezed orange juice
- Hot oatmeal with cream and sugar
- Freshly-baked bagels

For Lunch

- Grilled chicken salad with mixed greens
- Grilled cheese sandwich with tomato
- Chicken noodle soup

For Dinner

- Grilled salmon with steamed vegetables
- Italian beef sandwich with provolone cheese
- Roasted turkey with mashed potatoes and gravy

The cafeteria also offers a selection of desserts, including chocolate cake and apple pie.

In conclusion, the institute cafeteria provides a convenient and delicious meal option for its students.
Terriers Wind Up Eventful Campaign

Though the basketball season ended with four successive losses, the campaign may still be viewed as successful since the Terriers have risen a few spots in the NCAA basketball polls. The men's team has been outscored by an average of only 6 points per game after those four losses.

In the spotlight this year were two new faces, junior Jaylon Johnson and senior David Williams. Johnson, a transfer from Virginia Commonwealth University, has been a key player in the Territorial defense, while Williams has provided a strong spark off the bench.

On offense, senior forward John Thompson led the team in scoring with an average of 14.2 points per game. He also ranked second in the conference in rebounding with 7.8 rebounds per game.

The basketball team's success this season can be attributed to the hard work of Coach Thompson and his assistant coaches. Their dedication to the sport and their ability to develop young talent are evident in the team's performance.

The Terriers will look to build on this success next season, as they prepare for the challenges of the upcoming campaign. With the addition of several key transfers and a strong core of returning players, the team is poised for a strong season.

Meet Your Student Govt.

The Junior Class proudly presents John Smith, who has been elected to the position of Student Governor. Smith is a senior majoring in Business Administration and has been an active member of the Student Council for the past two years.

As Student Governor, Smith will be responsible for representing the student body to the administration and participating in decision-making processes at the University. He has already demonstrated his leadership skills and commitment to the student body through his work on the Student Council.

Smith is looking forward to working with the administration to address the concerns of students and to bring about positive change on campus. He believes that by working together, the student body and the administration can create a better living environment for all students.

The Student Government is committed to ensuring that all students have a voice in the decision-making process and that their concerns are heard. We urge all students to get involved and to participate in the activities of the Student Government.

The Student Government appreciates the support of the student body and looks forward to working together to create a better future for the University.
STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council has accomplished another one of the things that you thought couldn’t be done here at the University. The Council, with the guidance of Mr. Olsen, has made possible the placement of the reports, Board and Council minutes, which have been made available to all students. This has been a great improvement. It is anticipated that new lights will also be planned in the future as soon as the necessary funds are made available.

Financial Reports

The attention of all students is called to the Student Activities Bulletin Board. There you will find the most recent financial reports of all school organizations. This is one of the most important objectives of the Student Council, as it was one of the most frequently suggested points in the questionnaires filled out by last year’s student body.

Salary Investigation

As a result of receiving many financial reports, it was noticed that the salary of the editor and the business manager of last year’s Personnel and received the sum of $75.00 at the end of the year. A MAC special meeting has been held in recent Council meetings as to what can be done to help our students in subsidized school activities to be paid for their services. (A reimbursed service is an activity which receives a compulsory fee from every student.) It was the opinion of the Council members that a student organization that receives its support from a membership fee on all students rather than from its own initiative should not pay large salaries to student members. There has been positively no indication that this isn’t the student body is planning such a move. However, at our next meeting a better acquaintance with the situation before taking any action, the Council has voted to invite the Personnel office, business manager, and faculty advisor, of the College, to its next meeting for the purpose of enlightening the Council as to the problems involved. This meeting will be held at 4:30 P.M. on Wednesday, June 30, in the former room and interested students are invited to attend since Council meetings are open to all. The purpose of this investigation is not to recommend any special treatment or the like to the welfare of the student body is being as we have in the past.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Council has voted to accept the resignation of Mr. Olsen as editor of the student newspaper, "THE LAW." Mr. Olsen has been officially thanked for the work he has done and for the interest he has shown in the work. He has informed the Council that he will continue to work for the benefit of the student body. The Council is pleased to have Mr. Olsen continue in his work.

Textile Remover

To the present position, there was no separate Fireman House as we know it today. In the old buildings, dormitories, and the like, were installed in the basement area which required that the stairway, which was located centrally, provide a safe exit. In order to do this, the stairway was emptied of all furniture and the area was made available. The stairway was then used as a place for the student body to gather to discuss the events of the day.

School Songs

In order to help avoid issues of the confusian of the new buildings and songs, the Council has chosen one of the oldest songs at the college—"STUDENT'S SONG." This song has been officially adopted and will be sung at all school functions.

Student Government Association

The Council has voted to accept the resignation of the Student Government Association. This is due to the desire of the Association to be more representative of the student body, rather than of the Council. The Association will now be composed of all students, rather than of Council members. The new organization will be called the "Student National Association." It is hoped that this new organization will be a more effective body in carrying on the work of the old organization.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Council has voted to accept the resignation of Mr. Olsen as editor of the student newspaper, "THE LAW." Mr. Olsen has been officially thanked for the work he has done and for the interest he has shown in the work. He has informed the Council that he will continue to work for the benefit of the student body. The Council is pleased to have Mr. Olsen continue in his work.