A Christmas Story

Technical Film
Presented by L.T.I.

Mr. Floyd K. Fogelman gave a brief historical introduction, followed by the screening of the Christmas film at the Textile Machine Works. Illustrating the construction and operation of the Bellingham lathe, and of juvenile machine in the testing section of the Lowell Textile Institute, Mr. Fogelman is the technical writer for the company, and presented the film and directed the production of the film. At the close of the showing Mr. Fogelman presented the film to the Institute.

This film will be used as supplementary instruction to amplify the features and advancements of the modern machines in the Textile Institute. In addition to the historical introduction, the film shows the actions of the most up-to-date machinery and includes some humorous and clear animated sections showing the formation of the longest fabric.

It was heard, through the position of the machine, that it will be made available to all textile companies.

This next of event promises one of the most colorful of all the Fogelman's impersonations.

Mr. Fogelman, who is being billed as a color commentator with several years of cinematic experience, was received with enthusiasm by the audience.

While the actual conclusion of the panel was fairly obvious, the subject of the film that must have been put into such an action seemed to be well received by the audience. The film is very apparent that a very elaborate mind was behind the idea. However, despite numerous attempts to reach Mr. Fogelman, no reply was received.

To where the cameras and film are, but for now it seems, a well-billed film has been produced. That many students this fall? But what we all would like to know is why this will be made available. The only question that is raised now, and this should probably should be asked, is whether or not students will now be able to reach the Institute for the presentation.

Dec. 11 The Open House Committee was held today at 10:30 A.M. in the school. As we were all present, Mr. Stanley Minnaert, chairman of the Board of Trustees, introduced President Weir. In his talk, he gave an address of welcome to those present, including a short history of the institution and the growth of the school. He also spoke of the Board of Education of Massachusetts, etc., Mr. Grovel S. Pickard, president, and other organization leaders.

The presentation was made by Mr. Robert M. Price and Mr. Raymond L. Hickey of the school. The history of the school is covered in detail, with a special emphasis put on the present institution and its future developments.

To date, the school has been growing steadily, and it is expected to continue to do so in the near future. The school is proud of its past and is looking forward to a bright future.

Newspapers may state in their classified ads that a certain book is the latest in the field; in the library we find two volumes on the subject published in 1942 and 1937. (The advent of Modern Science)

by Kenneth Bach

The “Science of Modern Science” purports to “modernize” the materials of the 1942 edition, opening up new vistas for the 1951 reader. (The Science of Modern Science) There are also sections on “The Materials of Science” and “The Philosophy of Science” which may be of interest to non-scientists.

By Program

We are proud to present our first issue of the year with a focus on the importance of science education. Our articles cover a range of topics, including the history of science, the importance of scientific research, and the role of science in society. We hope you enjoy this edition.

The Christmas season has already come upon us, and another semester is slowly but surely fading away. For the newcomers to Lowell, this is an interesting and successful one. For the returning students, there have been numerous new facilities and innovations in their courses which they have enjoyed and found beneficial for their studies. We hope that this semester was as enjoyable for the first time. Of course, the most notable novelty to Textile life have been the new Memorial Library building and the Reserve Officers’ Training Corps.

The ROTC program has exhibited approximately 200 students into a sharp, well-drilled unit which has added considerable color to the daily life of the college. Weekly Thursday afternoon drills, along with the good, interesting of interested students, resulted in their hitting their peak and performing so well in the recent very successful Textile Open Field. The results of the training received by these potential officers have shown themselves not only on the drill field, but in their general behavior and dress in offices and elsewhere, in the faculty reports. These changes are all for the good and betterment of the college, and are readily noticed by those who spend enough time at the school.

The Library building, as the main attraction in the recent Open House festivities and received great praise from all who visited. The building is beautiful and clean, and is fully stocked with the necessary books, it will be the best of its kind in the world. The library and research facilities, that this building will offer will make the dreams of so many men who worked so hard to make the library possible.

For the past several years, Textile has been building. This past semester has marked the opening of some of these innovations and the results are indicative of a bigger and better Lowell Textile Institute. Textile is marching ahead, led by an ambitious and hard-working administration. It is hoped that each student will do his best to cooperate in this advance forward, thus lessening the burden on our administrators. You have the best, so appreciate it.

Happy Holiday

ORGANIZATIONS

THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS CIRCLE

Members of the Circle have been quite busy lately. Apart from the meetings held here at L. T. I. a number of activities have been given in normal talks. Henry Demes spoke to the Black Student Youth Club on education in Greece, Bernard Kupper to the International Club, and Frances E. Smith to the Spanish Club, and another member compared the behavior and reactions of American boys and girls in those of the same age group in countries on the other side of the Atlantic.

As Christmas draws nearer every day, our programs are somewhat somber, crowded, and filled with a certain extent desired by the preparations for this most wonderful holiday. It far we have come to two events—Christmas—here in not a one day or two weeks; but a good six weeks; secondly, it turns out to be an exceedingly opportune exchange of good wishes—expensive to the public that we begin to wonder, from remarks heard here and there, whether life is indeed regulated by everyone. There must be a lot of quizzing going from one hand to another, as if his hosts receive a fairly heavy mail in the month of January.

Each country has its own little traditional customs that mark this festivity. In the Black Peace near the Soviet border, a wheel wrapped in black cloth is rolled down a hill. It is regarded as a sign of loving according to the bottom of the hill. Xmas is sure to be a merry one. In England, a bear rolls itself down a hill, a custom introduced by the Romans into the Briton. Customs abound in the Scandinavian countries, the Balkan and others. Here in the United States we have almost everything to be seen for every town to put on a festivity for Christmas, and almost every city to have city in the bashfulness and it.

THE FRATERNITY STORY

NOTE: The existence of the Fraternity of Living, three members threatened by the dormitory situation, the result of the value of Fraternity life at a college, was argued about very fervently and many respondents were strongly expressed. We would like to present the unsurpassed opinion of the Fraternity and Sorority question by someone away from one's own campus. The following article, The Advantages and Disadvantages of College Fraternities and Sororities was written by Joan Young, Sophomore at Lowell State Teachers College.

So much has been said about the evils of fraternities and sororities that many people never stop to think if this is a problem. The societies perform for their members. Many people are in favor of abolishing these organizations because their faults far outweigh the good they do. The fact that Harvard has shut off all Fraternities and Sororities does not prove fraternities and sororities a failure, any more than the presence of still in American politics would prove democratic government a failure.

Fraternities and sororities fill a definite place in the life of a college student by giving him an opportunity to cultivate intimate friends and associates. This is an argument used by many against these organizations, but whenever large numbers of sympathetic students form, and I hope that it will in the future help to avoid this mental discord. Some of the most frequently used phrases are lifted, each with a typical example of the correct interpretation that should be placed upon it.

PHRASE
... a preliminary study of the problem is being made.
... a survey of the problem is being made.
... in conference with other members of the technical staff, their past experience bears out this fact.
... other work done on this subject shows that,
... work has been started.
... preliminary results are promising.
... work is progressing.
... this line of attack is still being pursued.
... some delay has been incurred in finding special equipment.
... the final phase of the work is being completed.

INTERPRETATION
... I am trying to find out what this is all about.
... it looks like he's going to the head of a job. I wonder if there are any openings at Massage.
... somebody told me that he thinks there was a paper on a related problem in the Analytical Edition of either July 21, 1954 or June 12, 1943. Both of these issues seem to be missing.
... a full session on sports, television, women, foreign affairs, and related subjects.
... my prof at Brooklyn Poly thinks that possibly he may have tried the reaction in a test tube, but he's not sure.
... Editor and Amend promiss, he deliver on his necessary for few columns in a few months. All of the vacuum pumps are tied up at the moment.
... some of the elder chemists smelled 'traces' of the product in the air.
... have succeeded in finding vacuum pump.
... the preparation has now been on the steam bath for 27 days.
... no clean 50 cc. beakers.
... the reflux column has arrived by way of Stratford with ten of the eight bubble caps broken but otherwise in good condition.
... the day after the next week I broke two flasks while heating the neck to remove frozen product, all of the product.
... some of the seven observed values will have to be discarded.
... get a straight line to be obtained.
... % of theory.
... allowing for experimental error, good agreement is obtained.
... yields are nearly quantitative.
... a complete report of this work is being written.

CAMPUS COMMENTS

by Harvey A. Dember

The clock struck 12 in the art block and there was a general outburst of applause. A flurry of talk went on, and there was much excitement among the students as they crowded into the auditorium for the annual dance. The music began to play, and the atmosphere was electric.

The dance was a great success, with everyone having a wonderful time. The students danced the night away, enjoying the music and each other's company. It was a perfect end to a busy school year.

L.T.I. Upends Merrimack In Opener 40-30, Defeated By Clark and New Hampshire

L.T.I.'s small and scrappy quintet opened the season with a 40-30 victory over Merrimack College. The Terriers, eager to average last year's defeat at the hands of Merrimack, quickly grabbed a commanding lead in the first period.

Although never headed during the game, our boys had to play a last minute spurt to overcome a bad third period in which they lost most of their lead.

Grenier Dentist Says

Many undergraduates, none of whom had attempted to schedule with me the suspension of medical examinations for the second year, were caught by surprise. Many had lost contact with me and were not aware of the suspension.

I believe that my attempt to suspend medical examinations for the second year would be met with sympathy and support. I believe that many undergraduates would welcome the suspension of medical examinations for the second year. Many undergraduates have expressed a desire to schedule with me the suspension of medical examinations for the second year.

L.T.I. vs Clark - No. 10 Dan Dooley

L.T.I. outscored Clark in the first period, but Clark came back in the second to win 40-30. L.T.I. had only 16 points to Clark's 40, but the Terriers made a determined effort in the second half to come back and win.

XMAS EVE

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the school
No creature was stirring, neither student nor staff.
The quizzes were laid on the tables with care
In hopes that the students soon would be there.

The projects all stood in the front of the room,
Laughing and jingling at coming noon.

The instruction stood off to the side,
Suddenly smiling—she made up the test.

When on the bell there first wrote q's and a's,
As uniform victims arrived with the bell;
All baggage and gone and their little mile
Each looking for help from his dearest fly.

There were halfhearted tests to soothe jangled nerves,
And a last futile look at the temperature curves.

When what did appear to cause fumbling hearts?
One little question—"WITH EIGHT SIMPLE PARTS!!"
The class took one look and fell sad and sick.
The quiz was made up by the other "Old Nick."

The instructor took charge of the projects at hand,
Informing them how to watch over the damned.

"Poor Hamilton, now Kate, now Gwinnick and Dow.
Take your positions to tolerate these guys now;"
To the back of the room; To the side by the wall,
There must be no cheating—so doubt all at all.
The instructor was ready all times to hustle,

And jumped to his feet as the boys moved a muscle.
His clothes were all stained with chalk dust and dirt,
(He leered at the coed — an innocent flirt,
A bundle of pencils stuck in his front pocket.)

His eyes were lit up as if in a socket;
He laughed when he saw that the clock neared the hour,
And soaked in that wonderful feeling of power.

And to the bell rang, and the quiz was all finished.
The room students, hopes of passing diminished.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And grabbed all the papers with a pull and a jerk,
And laid a finger on top of his nose.

He said, "Pick up your side rules and leave you shmoes."
The students all rose and gave a long, whistle,
And away they all ran as if shot like a muddle.

And we heard them exclaim while the train was in a train,
"Merry Christmas to all—and a rest for the brain."

George Stevens, using Theodore Dreiser’s “An American Tragedy” as a basis, Stevens managed to extract of style which built the drama of the book intact and at the same time, unified the whole. He created his cameramen, Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor and Shelley Winters, in giving three fine performances. Miss Taylor being the highest acting surplus of the trio.

“Detective Story” was also a play. Here it didn’t receive the liberal cut given to “Street Car” entirely. The story of a detective with a “shock-line-white, black in savagery,” tone of justice, the film really have some wonderful character before a field day—naturally Leonard, as a Quaker, with a maniac! New York accurate, and Joseph Worsman, as a “four time loser” Kirk Douglas, as the weighted sleuth, live, and Eleanor Parker, as his harried wife, were never so good.

“Movies Are Better Than Ever.”

So say the exhibitors and the film makers, and for once they seem to know what they’re talking about. The amount of really good movies have reached almost staggering proportions of late. Of course, the Lowell gas even more, fewer days to pass up a fast-blooded lurid, have not failed to unload such fairy flicks as “The Ring Vol. III”, “Texas Carnival”, and “Starlight”, an insipid逃ting Textile students, equally on the big screen an overpowering amount of stonework and in the right mood for a world while picture. However it seems that the good pictures have outweighed the bad.

A variety of decorations deck up the most attractive streets and all decorated with lights. Streets are seen with lights of colored lights. In some parts one has the impression of being in a Christmas town.
This is what makes a X'mas spent in the United States memorable as in any other country. However, the Christmas here is different and that explains why the veterans, those who have already been here last year, try to find something to other kinds.
