Frost Handbook Nears Completion

The KEY, the Tech Orientation Handbook, which has attracted enormous-wide interest and support from administrators, faculty, and students alike, is in the final throes of publication. This book was designed to aid the incoming Freshman in his adjustment to college life. The handbook contains a wealth of information on the history, growth, facilities, traditions, and activities of the school. It is not a secret supplement to the official Tech bulletin, but rather a guide and reference to all facets of life at Tech. From here have incorporated all features which will make the handbook a useful tool for both student and alumni.

The readership of the Handbook, Sophomore Karol Eames, a member of the TOC (Ex-doctoral Council), has sent in a transfer student, Dr. Robert Henry, who has described the book as follows:

"The book contains a history of Tech, describing its beginnings, and growth, a history of the development of our present program, a selection of the orientation program, activities, and features of the college, which will help students and others who will attend Tech in the future understand and appreciate its significance." PROFESSOR BALL FETED

Bloodmobile at Successful Effort

In Eames Hall on February 18, an audience of 150 people offered the blood drive sponsored by the American Red Cross, sponsored by Mr. K. H. Kyle, USARF, and Cadet (JG) D. D. Smith, new in direct charge of the arrangements. The drive was very favorably received by the Red Cross Bloodmobile personnel.

This drive was not only located around school, but was also broadcast around the Lowell area. However, ninety percent of the blood given was donated by students of LTI. The reminder of the 164 pints which were assessed would be given by Lowell residents. To me a strange idea, was one of the two women who donated their blood, the other being a member of the LTI Research Foundation. The first session during the day was Roger Richardson of Colmarford and Oliver R., Lowell, who were doing their first blood for the Red Cross. These professors were very favorably received. Each received a 500-sized week and a special certificate. Points were awarded to the dormitories of the BOTC corps for their participation. These points were towards the big social we will have held in the spring. The bloodmobile was placed in a convenient place and the squadrons were not available at time of publicizing.

Books Donated to LTI Library

Just recently, Frederick Pilam, chairman of LTI's permanent New Englandter, has purchased a permanently forty-five volumes of books to our library here at LTI. This is an extra large contribution to our library.

placements bureau offers summer jobs
by John Penrith

In addition to its efforts on behalf of prospective graduates, the Placement Bureau is assisting the departments of alumni who are seeking employment, both during the summer and the school year.

The summer placement program is still in progress, and is not yet large in terms of numbers of students involved, but is the method of offering the largest number of opportunities to anyone who may be interested in beginning his career in industry.

The Transfer Bureau, however, is in its second year, and many students have already begun to prepare for the next year's program.

The Transfer Bureau, in addition to serving the students, is also a valuable service to the parents and to the alumni who are interested in the progress of their sons and daughters.

The number of openings available in any given year will depend on the students' experiences and the conditions and upon the personal requirements of each firm. Many students have already begun to prepare for the next year's program, and the summer employment is more valuable than ever.

The average plant, and the students who have completed the course, are already employed. The students who have not been employed are still looking for work.

A large majority of the students are in the summer position, and they have the opportunity of doing something different and of getting some money.

Little Man On Campus

John Penrith is the director of the Placement Bureau and is responsible for selecting the students who will be offered employment.

The students who are selected are those who have been recommended by their parents, and who are in their third year of college.

In addition to offering employment to the students, the Placement Bureau also provides a valuable service to the alumni who are interested in the progress of their sons and daughters.

The Placement Bureau is a valuable service to the students, and it is hoped that it will continue to offer the same kind of service in the future.
