Lowell Textile Rumps Over Hyannis, 33-6

By Lester A. Mackiter

The 1939 Lowell Textile football team got underway to inaugurate the fall season with a 33-6 drubbing over Hyannis Teachers.

Coach "Cauty" Yarnell could not be headed by a hard-fighting Hyannis team.

On the very first play, George Downey, third-footed quarterback of the Textile team, ran back the opening kickoff for a distance of 73 yards. Although it looked as though Downey would run right through the whole Hyannis team, he was stopped on the 1-yard line of Hyannis. Four plays later, Capt. Roly Menzer went through his own right tackle for the first blood for Textile. Mackie failed to convert the point.

Inter-Class Sports

There is a "certain something" needed here at Textile to add a bit of zip toward more college interest. There is nothing that would bring this about so effectively as inter-class sports. Such activities would be especially welcomed by the many of us who are here on week-ends. This could be handled so that there would be opportunity for as many as wanted to participate. Everyone could engage in his favorite sport, everything from checkers to football being played. The class winning the greatest number of contests would be awarded a cup which the other classes would try to take from them the following year. A competition might therefore be developed in succeeding years. Let’s hear more about this.

Letters to the Editor

The TEXT welcomes letters from the readers. Letters on interesting events and activities here at Lowell, together with discussions of national and international interest, are especially welcome. All manuscripts must be signed, although names will not be published if it is requested. Drop your letters in the TEXT mailboxes, which is at the right of the door to Prof. Dow's office—Editor.

Dear Editor:

Two years ago the student body and the faculty of the Institute were both thoroughly impressed by the speech of a renowned Chinese philosopher, Prof. T. H. Hsih, who delivered an address at the Christmas assembly. The freshness and the snap-ingness did not bear that talk, but they have the rest of you forgotten it?

Your allusion speaks for itself—your indifference is pathetic.

If you have no desire to hear about best college football, the initiative to ask for more fees which cost only the students, in sending them, then my plea is not to you. I am not here in furthering our outlook on life, and in broadening their education by talks on subjects of pertinent, world-wide interest.

If those who are really interested will just show their willingness to be cooped in the simple expedient of attending and of giving their approval to those who make it possible for these speakers to appear here, I am confident that we shall have many interesting lectures during the coming year of the caliber of the Christmas assembly before last.

Yours truly,

C. M. R.

Lowell Textile Institute chaps invite all members of Textile Chemists and Colorists, and all those who are interested in textile and dye work, to join the society. The first meeting will be held on Thursday, November 22, in the second floor, Mr. Manning, ’40.

The primary purpose of the organization is to help the student members to make contact with the industrial interests of the country. The second purpose is to accomplish this in-three ways: members of the organization will secure from the leading firms of the country letters of invitation to the students to attend meetings, and to visit their plants. The third aim is to keep the students informed of the latest developments in the field.

Editorials

Textile Needs...

Many people are of the opinion that the citizens of Lowell lack civic pride, but the outstanding thing which the students here at Textile lack is COLLEGE SPIRIT. For many years, college spirit has been missing at the Institute. Now, it is about time something was done about it. The students seem to have an inferiority complex about going to Textile, as if the fact were something to be ashamed of, instead of sticking out their chests and boasting about the football team, the best equipped laboratories and the most capable faculty of any institutions of its kind, and Grade A courses which compare with those of the best engineering schools in the country.

The students ask, "What's the matter with Textile?" It isn't that there's anything wrong with the students. Why don't you boast Textile?

Why don't you make the people of the city Textile conscious? Very few of them have any idea that a first-class College exists right under their nose. Give the local papers something worthwhile to write about Textile—not just the smearing stories about the football antics of the first instaute.

A few days ago, a football rally was held in Southwark Hall, with great enthusiasm being shown and cheers almost taking off the roof; but where, oh, where, was that demonstration at the Hyannis game? Here we have a live-wire cheerleader, Harold Siegel, working hard for the development of some Textile spirit. Why not give him, and the team a little support? Although Professor Cushing, Coach Yarnell, Co-Captains Joe Petterson and Rudy Meney almost got down on their knees to beg you to give the team a little moral help. WHERE WAS IT?

Now here's the plan: Get going by cheering for the team. Get into some advertising spirit. Start the TEXT, the Fencing Club, and the Glee Club. Then watch how life here at Textile will become more fun, more interesting. Everywhere you go BOOST TEXTILE. Show the public that Textile has a little life and a lot of College Pride and Spirit!

Fraternities

Thursday, October 19, will mark the annual Pledge Day of the fraternity of the Lowell Textile Institute. Freshmen, to the sounds of the fraternity glee club, measure the worth of each fraternity, especially the members; and, after due thought and consideration, pledge youself to the fraternity of your choice.

Remember, although there is no obligation to become a member of a fraternity, the advantages claimed by the frats must not be overlooked. They are: good, clean fellowship; better social life; and development of valuable contacts and lasting friendships.

However, it's your choice. If you pledge, pledge wisely and conscientiously.

the student is required to apply himself. Such an extent that little time is left for outside activities. Because of this, and because Lowell Textile is practically all work.

“It has often been said that the two prime reasons for going to college are: first, to gain additional knowledge; and second, and perhaps the more important, to develop sociality. Here at the University, this development is greatly augmented by fraternal life, since the social functions of the fraternities play a greater part of the social life of the students.

“The social element, however, is now the only advantage gained by joining a class that lasts only a few years. Many of the men with whom a graduate of L. T. I. will meet in the business world some years hence will not be with chapters at the Institute. Therefore, it can be said that the social fraternity’s harmony exists and more friendly relationship springs up among the members of the textile industry.

“Lasting friendships, which are sometimes formed at the University, last for many years after the men leave the fraternity, are made among the men who are united in the bonds of the social fraternity.”

“therefore, I say, from the bottom of my heart, join a fraternity.”

Class of 1941

In the first class meeting of the semester, the Junior Class last Wednesday elected Abe Gordon Vice-President, and the office left vacant by Jimmy Shore.

Flats are on hand for the party, and it is hoped that all the Juniors, as well as many of the other class members will be on hand for a good time. At the dance will be open to outsiders, bring your friends and relations. This is the last for fifty cents a person.

It may have been noticed by the Institute in general that the numbers of the Class of 41, which have withdrawn many old friends from the social fraternity, and who have been replaced by original colors, and are now shining in their restored brilliancy.

U. S. Reserve Officer Discusses International Situation

(The opinions stated here are those of the writer and in no way reflect the opinions of the West Department or the Officers Res. Corps.)

As we all know, the United States has recently settled down to the usual fall business. This is due to the recent and tragic event that has occurred on the East Coast, and to the fact that the United States is not at war with any other nation.

We all know that the President that even a nation cannot close his mind or his conscience when it comes to the truth of the totalitarian theory of war brought to us by the military managers of the nation. They have demanded that we have so far been spared. Secure as we may feel ourselves, our real power of the sea will be so much the better for our coming.

Panama Canal Disaster Spot

Let us try to get the facts of the situation with a glance at one of the most interesting spots of the whole picture. So far as the Panama Canal is concerned, it is the only canal by air raid, or more reasonably, by sabotage, that we now have in the United States. It is the only canal in the United States that might weaken the resources of England and France. In view of that fact, the public has been fully informed of the fact that the condition of the United States, in the case of a disaster, would probably be carried out only as a last desperate resort, with the idea that there is only the fantastic but conceivable attempt by Russia to invade Canada in some way by the short stretch of sea that separates the two countries. An undertaking of this sort would mean that the Canadian northwest would be our battlefield.

Freshmen Cops

The Freshmen cops and the Sophomore "crew cops" are separate. For the Freshmen cops are all right, but the Juniors simply can’t bear to miss out on any of the activities, and so they have bought them. At the latest report, many of their activities were considered, but unless one hundred percent cooperation was given, none of them will be permitted to participate in the same activities.

three touchdowns against the Textile reserves.

"Previous to his unfortunate substitute, Coach Yarnall says he was informed that only four minutes of play remained. He then timed three minutes of actual play before sending the reserves into battle, believing only one minute remained.

In the third period, the Colby charges ran rough shod through the Textile reserves to pile up the three touchdowns which were tallied by Kilborn, Hegan and Stevens.

Soring added points after touchdowns.

Textile held the Colby team to six points until the last few minutes of play. Colby scored its first touchdown in the second quarter of the game via a sustained drive. Twice before, Textile stopped the Colby team but were unable to do so for a third time. The game was hard and rough all the way through.

Dowrey, Mackle, and Cunningham were inplace in the game and are not expected to appear for practice during this week.

Dubisz was the only back to gain for Textile and his excellent kicking held Colby back many times. Colby scored from 35 yards. Henry Sinski kept Textile from a more prolonged defeat, kicking up Colby's running attack consistently and forcing them to take to the air.

Textile Romps Over Hyannis, 33-6

Later in this same period, Mackle had kicked off to Brooks of Hyannis, who, in turn, returned the ball from his own five to his own 30. Hobson, Textile tackle, broke through the line and blocked a Hyannis kick and Massalaska fell to the ball to give Textile possession of the ball. Dubisz then passed from the Hyannis 11 to Cunningham for a second touchdown. Mackle added the extra point.

In the second period, Textile added 13 more points to the score. Dubisz scored and Mackle kicked the extra point. The second score came as a result of a 45-yard pass from Dubisz to Mackle who scored. The point was wide. Textile seemed headed for another score until Massalaska fumbled on the Hyannis 1-yard line and the ball was recovered by Textile.

At the start of the second half, Mackle intercepted a Hyannis pass and ran 60 yards to score. The point was good. From this time on to the end of the game there was mostly defensive play on the part of Textile.

Score: Textile 33, Hyannis 6.

A sterling brand of football was played by every member of the team. It is hard to name the outstanding man of the day but if they must be named, your correspondent would name Al Varsaski, Clarence Mackle, and Dubisz to the dominant Textile men on the field.
