Plans Being Made For Text Annual Show

The Lowell Textile Players are at present considering plays and orchestras for the big event of the year at Textile. The play, as usual, will have all the parts played by fellows and several names bands are being considered. The Players must have guaranteed support of the student body in order to engage a noted orchestra. A questionnaire is being prepared which will be submitted to the students which will serve as an index for plans.

Games with local colleges in the near future and all interested are urged to watch the bulletin boards as well as in the TEXT for further details.

The drawing for the cash prizes offered in the TEXT subscription campaign will be held at the next assembly meeting to be attended from time to time since a real opportunity had not presented itself. Here's hoping!

Professor Beattie Passes Away

With the passing in January of Dr. Frederick N. Beattie, both instructors and students at the Lowell Textile Institute lost a great friend and teacher.

He was at the Institute for 20 years as a teacher of Organic Chemistry and Technical German. He was also a faculty member of the Omicron Pi fraternity.

As is common to the chemistry professors here at the Institute he was associated with the A. A. T. C. C. For many years he transcribed and digested technical notes from foreign sources for the American Dyestuff Reporter. He was able to read at least six languages: French, German, Latin, Italian, and Spanish. However, with all his executive knowledge and research he was never known to publish any original work. The circumstances are unfortunate because he had such a distinctive personality.

In addition to teaching Professor Beattie was an ordained minister of the Episcopal Church. Serving for a number of years at the parochial assistant to Reverend Thomas E. Wilson. During the summer he substituted in the church at North Woodstock, New Hampshire.

One of the most interesting things of the Doctor was his hobby. To him they were only hobbies but he attained professional perfection in anything he became particularly interested in. Photography was a great pastime with him and he would spend hours in the darkroom and his pictures were among the best he developed. The saying that "Hobbies are the source of the best pictures" proves to be true with his work. Nearly every week he would have a new picture ready for the class, which he always used to his advantage.

The students who had the privilege of taking courses from him will always remember him and have a warm spot in their hearts for "Doc".

ALUMNI NOTES

James M. Booth, '38, of the Huber and Kothe Co. is on an extended vacation in the Orient.

Bliss M. Jones, '38, of Orange, Mass. also visited recently.

Rifle Club Announces Tournament

The event which all Textile students have been looking forward to is now at hand. For one week only, February 8 to 11, the rifle range will be at the tender mercies of any number who wish to try their skill with the rifles. The range will be open during the noon hour, spare hour, and the last half hour every day until Saturday. Saturday morning the range will be open until noon so that the final finals may be permanently settled.

There is a small nominal fee to cover the cost of ammunition for each round of shots.

The annual tournament is held to determine the best shot in the Textile Institute.

(Pickout Photos Made)

Last week from Wednesday through Friday a staff of photographers from the Sargent Studio in Boston were kept busy taking pictures of the various courses and organizations at the Institute and making the portraits of the students and faculty for their inclusion in the yearbook.

The photographers seem to be very efficient in their work and demonstrated that they "know their stuff." Proofs of the Senior Class pictures are expected within a few days.

Candid shots are to be featured even more in this year's pickout, which promises to be one of the best in the Institute.

Progress In Pasteur Hall

Although many of the private laboratories and offices of the new Textile Building have been equipped and occupied the three largest laboratories have not yet been opened for the student use.

These three are the Organic, the Physical, and the Quantitative Analysis laboratories.

Of the three, the Quantitative Analysis Laboratory will be the first to be ready, due to the fact that no such laboratory exists at present. The remaining balance room is now ready, and work in the general laboratory is progressing rapidly. New benches and hoods have been installed, leaving only the finishing work to be completed. It is expected that the laboratory will be opened within two weeks.

The lecture and recreation rooms of the new building have been in use for several weeks. Benches have been installed in the Physical Laboratory, and the Photography laboratory has been equipped to some extent. It is not necessary to add that such a length of time before the students can enjoy the benefits of their new Pasteur Hall.

Lowell Textile Loses Sixth Straight To Stronger Teams

Although Our Textile Hoopters Were on the Short End of Six Straight Games, Some of the Scores Were Very Close, Just a Few Points Between Victory or Defeat.

With Lowell Textile stacking up against some of the strongest teams in New England such as St. Anselm's, M. I. T., Colby, Franklin, and Brooklyn, and New Hampshire respectively, the outcomes of the contests showed that despite Textile by 13 points the losing end was always fighting to the very last minute of every game and with lady luck on their side they have been out on top of several of the gauges.

St. Anselm's. 49, Textile 30

Dave Perlick scored more than half of Lowell's total points in this team bowing to St. Anselm's 49-30 at Manchester, N. H., Jan. 10.

The visiting team's tall forward ran up 17 points on 6 field goals and 1 foul. Blak and Cullen were the leading scorers for the victors with 10 and 9 points respectively.

M. I. T. 45, Textile 30

M. I. T., with a height advantage of about 4 inches over each member of the Textile team defeated our team 45-30 at Cambridge, January 13.

Again a visiting team was the highest on the court. Capt. Giansa scored 15 points on 6 field goals and 3 free throws. Without Giansa the Textile team would have been sound thrashers for the home team.

COMMUNITY CHEST

Well Supported

The faculty of Lowell Textile Institute gave most freely to the annual Lowell Community Chest drive. Professor Fickett was the chairman of the Institute and a total collection of $868 was reported. This is a most tidy sum and the entire staff should be commended upon their thoughtfulness in helping to help others.

Omicron Pi News
On January 11, 1939, at 7:30 P.M., Frederic S. "Doe" Breitie passed away. He had been sick only a short while when it was deemed necessary to perform an operation from which he did not recover.

"Doe" was more than a teacher; he was a real friend of everybody. One could talk with him at any time, and he might be a strictly business talk or purely social. He always seemed to have a solution to spare when needed.

He was a close friend of Omicron Pi. No banquet seemed complete without him. His frank, open, humorous manner was liked by all who knew him. May he rest in peace.

Murphy's Musings on Delta Doings

Congratulations on our victory over "O"! Wednesday, Nelson called a veritable "Frank Merriwell" act.

While congratulations are in order, let us apply the gracious art of O Pi in holding up the latch so that our victors may climb in for the alighting. Small things like that make great team.

Wall is spending a good deal of his time at St. John's Hospital—seems that he is bothered with "heart" trouble.

Beaufiful Proulx is the latest addition to the "Pals of Pudding" Club.

The basketball team is like the Brooklyn Dodgers. We are building up for 1940. Hamer, Murphy, Duggan, and Poppa will form with Grodin and Gnanam the team that will clinch the fraternity cup for us.

Cordeau is practicing bowling and we will give him a chance to break into the lineup when we bowl Phi Pi.

All up for a victory over S. O. P.

A.T.C.C. MEETS

The Lowell Textile Institute Student Section of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists held an important meeting on Thursday, February 11. Plans are being made for trips to outside chemical industries, as well as for speakers to address the group during the present year.

Edward Speck told us what he observed during the trip planned to the Du Pont experimental plant. In the program committee, requests will be given both by the members and by men in the industry.

Vernon W. Colby presided over the meeting.

Colby 51, Textile 39

A rejuvenated Colby team thoroughly mauled Textile 52-39 at Waterville, Me., Feb. 5. Lowell had previously beaten them close, 46-44, but the "Masons" were leading all the way and it was a matter of how close they could keep the score. Burrell of the victors scored 32 points to lead the margin. Colby with 42 points, Giannaris and Staklinski with 13 each were high scorers for the Weaver.

Brooklyn 43, Textile 34

Brooklyn College, boasting one of its strongest teams in history, scored the victory over Lowell Textile 83-30, on the Lowell court, Jan. 7. The game was held under circumstances which led to the cancellation of the game. Brooklyn is conceded as one of the strongest teams in the New York area, and before the season started, this was hailed as Brooklyn's greatest year. The visitors are a little all-around team, with Schnurrer as their spearhead. Brooklyn played a fine brand of basketball throughout, and almost won from a team which the experts gave little chance of beating.

The earlier part of the period was even closer with the Lowell team playing at times despite the unfamiliarity with the upstate court. Capt.
