Olsen Defends LTI Minority Hiring Practices to Human Relations Commission

Last Thursday, Acting President Everett Olsen went before Lowell's Human Relations Commission to discuss equal opportunity hiring at Lowell Technological Institute.

The Institute's hiring policies have come under criticism by Human Relations Commission chairman Samuel Crayton. Crayton had stated earlier last week that he felt Olsen had no intention of doing anything to hire or recruit more persons from minority groups to work at Lowell Tech.

Besides criticism from Crayton, Lowell Tech had been having difficulties with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The Institute has been debarred from $90,000 in HUD funds until it can prove that it is making an effort to increase minority enrollment and employment.

The Human Relations Commission called upon Olsen to appear and explain the school's policies on minority hiring. Chairman Crayton had previously stated that he had obtained the help of the Merrimack Valley Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) particularly in the area of legal services, if they needed them.

Crayton said that he had discussed some very productive programs with Olsen in the past that minority recruitment with officials from LTI had been fruitless.

Olsen went before the commission last Thursday and defended Lowell Tech's allocation programs. He outlined briefly the three basic objectives of LTI's minority programs:

1) To seek out black engineers in the business community to teach courses in the evening division of the Institute.
2) To seek out qualified black students who want to go to LTI.
3) To develop courses needed to assist disadvantaged students.

Olsen had reviewed and reviewed the programs we already have in operation for minority students. He talked about the programs of the In-Service program that has been operating for the past twelve years and the continuing of the Community Action Program. The Community Action Program employs 12 black students at Lowell Tech to recruit other black students who are still in high schools to the Institute.

He told the commission of LTI's inability to get $150,000 in funds from the state legislature to set up a Disadvantaged Student Program. Last year the bill was defeated in the Senate, the bill has been filed again.

Another program Olsen discussed was the one started recently whereby 20 disadvantaged, minority students are allowed to go to Summer School with free tuition, books, meals and room. This program would give these students a better chance of getting into, and once there, staying at Lowell Tech.

President Olsen also talked on the proposed Shaw University Exchange Program. Shaw University is the predominantly black University in North Carolina. The program would involve an exchange of both students and faculty. Olsen stated that there was much interest in the proposal but that the Institute should wait until a new president is chosen before a final decision is reached on this proposal.

Olsen then turned his remarks to the area that the Human Relations Commission was more concerned about, the Institute's hiring policy concerning minority groups. He stated that Lowell Tech has only a certain number of jobs and that the number of jobs at the Institute was controlled by the Commonwealth, Olsen asked the commission to look into areas that are public supported to help in finding jobs for the disadvantaged. He continued that Lowell Tech was only one institution and can not solve Lowell's unemployment problem alone.

Acting President Olsen closed his presentation by making a few suggestions to the Human Relations Commission.

He stated that he would like to hire in trying to find qualified black and other minorities to teach in the Evening Division. Olsen offered to provide a room and a teacher if 15 or more minority students could be trained to take any course in MA-101, the room and the teacher would be provided for these disadvantaged students.

Olsen also asked the commission's help in finding disadvantaged students who would like to take advantage of the aforementioned summer school program. The commission was also asked to notify before the legislature to help get the $150,000 for the Disadvantaged Students Program for Lowell Tech.

He finally requested that the Human Relations Commission help the Institute find "qualified" minority persons to work at LTI and also reiterated his hope that the commission would look to other public supported institutions as well as LTI to solve the unemployment problem.

The Human Relations Commission then questioned Olsen as to some incidents involving hiring practices at LTI. He told the commission that he would find out the answer as to why, when 22 Spanish Americans applied to 6 openings at Lowell Tech, none of the 22 were qualified for any of the 6 openings.

On the whole the Human Relations Commission seemed very satisfied with Olsen's report and passed a motion to help LTI get the $150,000 from the legislature for the Disadvantaged Students Program.

LTI Alumnus Wins Yale Younger Poet Award

Michael Casey, a 1968 graduate of Lowell Tech, has been chosen over 700 other applicants for the Yale Younger Poet award for 1973. This award is the most prestigious honor given to new poets and has been a stepping-stone towards success for many outstanding poets.

After earning his degree at LTI in physics, Casey was drafted into the military service and spent 5 years in Vietnam, the experiences from which he based his award publication, Obscenities. Casey spent two years in the Army serving in the M.P.'s as a highway patrolman and a gate guard at Chu Lai air base. He was released from the service to do graduate work in physics at the University of Buffalo.

The applications for the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education scholarships are now available in the Financial Aid Office. These applications are for undergraduates who are not presently receiving a B.H.E. renewal award to their home institution. Students who presently hold these Scholarships do not have to reapply, but will be sent a new application for the renewal award. The deadline for the submission of applications is April 1st.
Sen. Gruening Speaks in Support of McGovern

Senator Gruening, a long time resident of the U.S. Southeast Asia policy, spoke at Lowell Tech last Tuesday in the Multi-Purpose Room.

Gruening, who has been appearing at many colleges in support of George McGovern, spoke of the trouble the U.S. is now in due to its extreme lack of leadership, particularly in the executive branch of the government.

He said that the real trouble started when we were initiated into the war by Pres. Johnson and that even today, Richard Nixon continues the deception started by Johnson. Gruening stated that we must "do all in our power to prevent another President, who will decide us, from getting elected.

Gruening cataloged what he felt to be Nixon's broken promises, they were to end the war in Vietnam, and to lower the unemployment. It continued that it is now important that we select the best candidate, which he felt was George McGovern.

The Senator said that McGovern is the only candidate who has said what he will do on all the issues. Speaking on the draft and the activity for draft resisters Gruening stated that the draft was an "illegitimate law which must be ended, or a free society should be forced to face it."

Gruening concluded that the Democratic process must be revitalized by strong leadership and that George McGovern can provide such leadership."

What ever happened to the Academic Calendar?

Three months ago I wrote an article by the name of "Something to think about" in which I posed a bullet to the student body advising a proposed and much needed calendar change.

With a count of 166 to 2 for a first semester change. (Finals before Christmas) I went to the Student Council and asked the Chairman if we couldn't do something about it. He then formed an ad-hoc committee consisting of Prof. Hollenback, Prof. Mandell, Prof. Fleming, Prof. (Em) Nowlin, Mr. Duggan, Ron (Apple) Avalone, Dave Smith, Mr. Terry Murphy & Myself. We met for the first time as a committee on December 10th.

Well, that's how it all began and the end result is a new academic calendar which I hope the student body at Lowell Tech will benefit from in the future. It will be the first time that our last semester ends before Christmas and I hope that everyone here at Tech finds it a pleasant situation to adjust to. I would like to thank the members of the Academic Calendar Committee and especially Prof. Mandell and Dr. Harry Robinson who gave me this help and some wise words when I needed them. Please Note:

The following Academic Calendar accompanying this article is now Academic Policy so CLIP & SAVE!

Apples Upset for Professors

The five professors, due for promotions, that were skipped over by the Board of Trustees at their last meeting have been granted a hearing of determined length before the Full Personnel Committee of the Trustees according to Acting President O'ohna.

Olah, speaking to the faculty on Thursday said that each professor will be allowed to present oral and written evidence as to why he should be promoted to full professor.

The Personnel Committee met before the last Trustees meeting and had recommended that five professors be skipped over due to what the committee felt was a lack of evidence concerning their advancement. The eight that the personnel committee recommended were promoted by the trustees. The full membership of the Personnel Committee was not present when the recommendations were made.

The trustees have agreed to evaluate individually each of the professors, however, reviewing such things as teaching experience, degrees, research and publications in journals.

The trustees have ruled that in order to be promoted from associate professor to full professor, a terminal degree is required. At the present time approximately 40% of the faculty hold doctorates.

Olah feels that the requirements for doctorates in order to be a full professor should begin at the associate level, and not in the more advanced areas of the faculty.

Acting President Olah and Provost Brighan feel that the present guidelines concerning faculty promotion have been confused.

Indian Students Change College Symbol

YPSILANTI, Michigan (CPS)—Eastern Michigan University, under pressure from a Navajo student, has changed the image of the Huron Indian, the school’s nickname, from a “blood-thirsty, whisky drinking savage” to a “noble and wise chief.”

A special student committee recommended that the symbol and nickname be dropped but a compromise was reached that called for the revised symbol and the establishment of an annual American Indian Heritage week. There are only 15 Indian students on the campus of 18,000 students.

Pot Luck

Recently, the president’s committee on marquardt recommended that use of the drug be legalized under certain conditions, notably that such use be restricted to persons with a prior conviction. The rationale for this recommendation was that doctors, lawyers, “respectable” people in large numbers, were using the drug, and that it would be wrong to punish them. Particular emphasis was placed on the idea that “noble” and “respected” people in large numbers, were using the drug, and that it would be wrong to punish them.

This line of reasoning is dangerous, say the Left. It certainly ignores the fact that some people practice medicine, and that certainly they should be punished. The fact that they say, is a crime is an illegal act committed by a “criminal”, where “criminal” is defined in terms of social and economic status rather than in terms of obedience to the law. Under the proposed new laws, we are confronted with the specter of a college dean, putting in his day’s work meeting with students who have been arrested for drug use, and then at the end of the day going home to relax in his own little pot patch, safe and secure in the knowledge that he is in his own property, and that the drug he is using is legal under the law.

Abroad isn’t it? Either marquardt should be legalized completely, or the police should start busting equally.

Disgusting

R.E. to the letter of Howard Epstein.

Howard Epstein’s letter is a perfect example of how the money publicized by an individual in regard to Textile Department has created misunderstandings among the students, faculty members and the taxpayers of the State of Massachusetts.

The reason for closing the undergraduate program (Not the Textile Department, in the Textile Department was the cost. According to the administration, (or quoted in the text, January 31, 1972) it cost on average $4,000 to graduate a student in the Textile Department. On the same basis the cost to graduate a student in other department is calculated, more departments in the school will have to be phased out before Textile.

It is interesting to note in this connection that three faculty members from the Textile Department are teaching a course to almost half of the Freshman class. How ridiculous it is to say that the department commanded a $180,000 payroll, while serving only eight students.

It is disgusting to know at the time when the Southeastern Massachusetts University at New Bedford, is developing their Textile Department, Lowell Technological Institute is closing the undergraduate program in the Textile. The reason for the plans out of the Textile Department is, therefore, certainly not the cost of maintaining this department, but nobody ever knows the real reason except the administration.

Howard Epstein writes: “It is rather obvious that the Taxpayers of Massachusetts no longer wish to pay to establish a school that is merely to educate a few national or international students.” But forgets that majority of the students in the Graduate School are out of Massachusetts.

Will the administration be happy to phase out the Graduate School?

Sincerely yours,

C. Grause
Member, Student Advisory Committee

We’re Trying, Why Aren’t You

The Freshman Class at Lowell Tech has to be one of the most feelingless, careless, group of freshmen that has ever sat foot on those hallowed grounds. Last Thursday, Cumb President Jim Green was called to order the first meeting of the freshman class under his administration. The twenty or so freshmen who appeared at the meeting stood Jim announce the plans for Unity Week with the students of Lowell State. This week is supposed to bring together the male body of Tech with the female body of State. The freshmen here are complaining about the lack of dates and the girls at State are complaining about the lack of men, so why not do something about this by helping out set up a committee to plan for Unity Week. There will be a meeting tonight for all students who want to help make the plans, and do other advertising for the project. So why not help in our campaign instead of just viewing the harvest?

Spring Carnival, Organizing Now

It may seem early but a lot of people feel that this is the time to mention it so... The SPRING CARNIVAL is going to be May 5 a Friday. As was the case last year we are going to need every body working together... Not to be trite, but like last year, the theme of the SPRING CARNIVAL is TOWARDS COMMON GOAL... TOGETHERNESS. We really feel that last year was nothing compared to what we can come up with this year. Last year nobody believed that the whole idea was possible...

Dump the Food

The Student Council met last week to discuss several important developments. First, the test case of a dormitory student to install a microwave oven was successful. The courts ruled in favor of the student, allowing for the installation of the appliance.

The Council is planning to set up a committee to investigate charging of the food contractor. Anyone interested is asked to contact Greg Houston. The purpose is to ensure that the student-fee money is being spent as intended, and to address any issues that may arise.

COMMUTER OBSERVATIONS

A year ago, Fitchburg Massachusetts was given the all-American city award. For those of you who are unfamiliar with the award, it consists of this:

A group of trained seals are gathered together to receive the best of America's cities. This highly coveted award only goes to the most correct, efficient, Dirty, and heavily taxed towns. It was no surprise to anyone that Fitchburg won the award last year.

Now Lowell has been given an all-American city. Again, this came as no surprise to me as I had already picked Lowell as the sheep dip town of the year.

Upon hearing of the award, I immediately drove to city hall to offer my congratulations. It took me about seven hours to get there because of the all-American condition of Lowell's roads. Once there, I spoke to many city officials about the reasons for this honor. A likely old politician whom everyone called "Goldfish" told me the award came basically because of the work (or lack of work) of the Public Works Department.

To get the details, I questioned the public works official who explained the "Secret Tricks" to me. He told me that when he announced strike, they don't plow the roads and they don't get paid. Instead, every homeowner, they have a secret trick. This way, they don't plow the roads but they still get paid.

I mentioned that Fitchburg had something similar to Fitchburg drivers drive around town with the plows up. He stated that Lowell has a better idea. The city trucks are only used to and from the coffee shops, to save the taxpayers good sense.

I was truly impressed. The citizens of Lowell have a great idea to be proud of. Imagine, Lowell is one of the most smart, corrupt and polluted cities in the country. I salute the city of Lowell, all-American city!

Illegality of N. Y. Termpapers Sought

NEW YORK, N. Y. (CPS) - The State Attorney General of New York has filed suit to prevent clients of the so-called "term papers" business from hundreds of students, some of them in Ivy League Colleges and Universities.

The suit, filed in the New York State Supreme Court by Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, seeks to enjoin one Kathleen Sankin from conducting a term paper business on the grounds that she acted and solicited the students for fraud.

Mr. Sankin's business, which operates under the names of "Lowell Tech Termpapers, Inc." and "Termpapers Unlimited of New York," has grossed over $35,000 since Nov. 1.

LTI CHORAL

Have you ever been walking along to somewhere with someone and a song or tune comes into your head and then your voice gets so激动 that you can’t believe that you and someone else are singing something and the beauty of the whole thing is that it’s together (somehow) and that’s what’s special (not the lyrics, chords, but just the sound of it) of all of it’s beauty.

Sometimes the new thing is happening here. There are so many people near you and about you with so much talent and spirit that the thought is really staggering. It’s time to channel it and use it. A group of people have put together a choral group and will be holding their first meeting on Thursday March 7 at 7:00 at the Multipurpose Room. Don’t you have to sing well to read music, all that means is that you enjoy good sound. We’ll be starting with some round table discussions to find out what the like and don’t like and how you’d like to die. We’ll be listening to recordings and also introducing our advice, Professor Heilman.

If you can’t make it, but are still interested, contact A Galant at 3664 or come to the following meeting on Thursday March 16. Think about how big a chunk of your day is taken up by music. Don’t let it lead around the prepoetry of your life. Reach for it, grab for it, work for it, work for it, make it yours.

PLASTICS-OPEN HOUSE

Last Thursday, March 2, the plastics department held an open house. The mix of equipment was exciting and everyone was able to get a bird-eye view of the site. Only few people of course, were able to actually see all the plastic was available and explore the top four places in the area.

One of the most intriguing machines was one that produced finished. Although they actually flew, only two colors were available. Other free samples included a lot of bags, plastic bottles, containers, and small plastic boxes. Students and faculty were available to explain process and to answer any questions you might have.

Refreshments were served courtesy of the Society of Engineers. Students and faculty were served with hot coffee, tea, and donuts.

High School
on Campus Day

If you were among the many groups of students trying to find today that are still in High School on Campus Day, Co-operative guides will be members of Circle K and KOTC.

Circa 8:00 am in an open house meeting this Thursday evening, March 9 at 7:30, it will be held in the Multipurpose room of the library and all of us invited to attend. Guest speaker, Mr. Twitwill, will give a talk on SHARE, a local drug program. It looks to be an informative night so why not come over and learn something. Refreshments will be served.

Hockey Team Selected for E.C.A.C. Championships

Last week the Lowell Tech Varsity Hockey team was selected to play in the E.C.A.C. (Eastern College Athletic Conference) Division II Hockey Championships. Tech, which entered the tournament with a 12-10-0 record, played the top seeded team in the tournament, University of Vermont, in Burlington, Vt., last Saturday evening. The other teams in the championships are the University of Massachusetts, Boston State, Salem State, St. Anselm’s, Merrimack College, and the University of Buffalo.

Last Thursday at the Billera, the LTI Terriers belted Amherst College 8-3 in the last regular game of the season. This marks the third straight year that Coach Bill Riley’s hockey teams have finished with winning records.

In the Amherst game, Tech jumped out to a commanding 6-1 lead after the first period. The second and third stanza were race formality, as the tournament-bound Terriers added its final two scores in the second period.

Freshman standout Steve Woods, who scored over 20 goals before playoff action began, matched the entire Amherst scoring output with a three goal hat trick.

Don Shutt contributed a pair of goals to the Terriers’ cause, while Mike McElhiney and John Nealy each put the puck in the net once.

LTI took advantage of a pile of Amherst penalties as five of the eight goals were scored on power plays.

Scoring single goals for the unfortunate visitors were Rocky Shepard, junior center Brian Mullenzy and sophomore defenseman O.C. Owens from Michigan.

Mike Geragoshian handled the goaltending chores for Tech once again, while Paul Kowbowski was attempting to guard the nets for Amherst. Both goalies were products of the Middlesex League, with Geragoshian graduating from Stoneham and Kowbowski from Wakefield.

The past two weeks have seen the LTI Balzers lose a tough match and come up with a stunning performance. The loss was to the Lincolns Ice Society at Harvard. The men from Tech could only muster one point, that coming from the racquet of Mike Eastman. The final score was 4 to 1 in favor of the Lincolns.

The next match, a big upset in favor of LTI, was played against the Tnalog Racquet Club of Boston. The winners for Tech were Rich Manich, Dan Nault, and Mike Eastman. Also involved in close but losing battles were Bob Kenoc and Walt Maniak. The team now has a record of 11 wins and 16 losses. This record is the best that the team has had in its short existence. Three members of the team are now competing in the State championship at Harvard. They are Rich Manich, Dan Nault, and Kurcz.
