L.I.T. Votes on New Name for School

Positional Changes Occur With Faculty

President Lydon Announces New Set-Up Following Session of Board of Trustees

Lowell—Martin J. Lydon, president of Lowell Textile Institute, has announced the elimination of a technical staff at the Institute and the reorganization of that part of the faculty that have seven residencies in professional fields. This announcement was made following a recent meeting of the Institute board of trustees.

The positional changes, according to President Lydon, are the result of personnel decisions conducted by the bureau of personnel and standardization of schools.

Following are the newly authorized titles: their recipients and their degrees:

Assistant professors—J. Arthur Alvarsson, department of textile engineering; George K. Ball, department of design and weaving; James W. Bell, department of textile engineering; Donald C. Caine, Jr., department of textile engineering; Robert A. Cobb, aeronautical and astronautical engineering; Walter J. Elder, department of chemistry; Mildred E. Mixter, department of textile engineering; Richard F. Myers, department of chemistry; H. B. Neeley, associate professor of chemistry and director, Central Louisiana Textile Institute; and Louis A. Nichols, chairman of the department of textiles and humanities.

Associate professors—James B. Keating, department of textile engineering; Maurice D. Celmins, design (1903) and in the most recent grade, associate professor of design and weaving; Ernest J. James, department of design and weaving; Franklin B. Jenkins, department of design and weaving; and John M. McConnell, associate professor of commercial and industrial education.

Professors—William W. Dierking, department of textiles and humanities; and John B. Shilling, department of chemical and textile engineering.

The following changes were made in the business office staff: Thomas A. Burt, clerical clerk; and Thomas O. Bewley, chief clerical clerk.

Textile Graduate Excels in Navy

Glen Falls, N.Y., April 15—Paul S. Clark, engineer, first assistant in the U.S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Clark of 64 Church Ave., Glen Falls, has completed the highest scholar examination (121 out of 169 in the most recent grade, graduate student class at the Textile School, Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. A native of Glen Falls, he is a graduate of the Lowell Textile Institute and the Lowell Textile Institute, Lakeland, Fla. His next duty station will be the Naval Training Center, Training Station, New York, N.Y.

While at Textile, Paul was a member of the Textile Swimming Team and a leader in the Textile School Boy Scout Troop. He received a scholarship as an attorney to the Textile School, the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Last month he was advanced to the rank of Engineer and on March 30 he entered Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I., as a midshipman.
Once again election time comes to the Lowell Institute, L. T. 1. Not that this was a surprise, but nevertheless, around this time every year there seems to be something in the air. Maybe it is because the members of the student body are warm-up their interest for the year to come. Whatever it is, it is generally felt all over school and justifiably so.

In regard to the elections, it should be the duty of each and every student on campus to take their part. To this end, this year's election has been marked by a decided distaste on the part of some students. This factor creates a very unfavorable reaction of the student body, because of the absence of serious consideration, and also because of the habit of checking off a name which will result in utilizing the election of the recognized representative regardless of his actions.

While we recognize that there are some additional complications, the Student Council is still trying to establish itself as the body which is representative of the student body—its voice in the administration. For these reasons, the self-conception of these wishes or establishment of these basic ideas rests entirely on your hands. It is only by you and for you that we function, and therefore, it seems only logical to assume that the recognition of the Student Council will be due only to your understanding and support.

This attitude on the part of the students is in regard to the election. Whatever does it exist? Do not adopt the attitude of—"What can the Student Council do?" What have they ever done for us?" If you can do no better for us as a student, but for LIT as a whole.

The success or failure of a Student Council year, in respect to the efficient and zeal of the elected Student Council as is believed by the student body, will, in fact, be the reflection on the minds of the entire student body to the extent that the Student Council in their efforts will be held directly responsible for it. From the above, it is obvious that toward the realization of the aims should be achieved by lowering of the Student Council, and that this year, you put them there; your function; for you; then follow, give them all the backing you can.

AN OPEN LETTER TO YOU

An open letter to the students, faculty, and administration of Lowell Textile Institute.

Dear Friends,

We're not done to brag, but this is one time we just can't keep quiet. You've seen our past, and will see our future. You've read the stories in the TEXT. You might have shrugged him off as the usual blunder, but it's true to say.

The fact that there are many of us, as well as the student body, that are intelligent and mature student body. Hardly worthy of mention are the first and foremost, that the electors of the Student Council are those who have the utmost confidence in our own ability, and want to have our own name made. We will be prepared for the election. To this year, we will be the same delegates from the last to graduate from Lowrey Textile Institute.

LOST AND FOUND

One of the sections of the TEXT, originally intended in the humorous vein of the From, has received much through the typos. This was the classified advertisement section. The following column has been allowed to run. The TEXT will continue.

PAPER ENGINEERING BUILDING

The opening of the Paper and Leather Engineering building by the late Bardwell Storrs is now marked a milestone in the history of the Lowell Textile Institute. The first building on the present campus Southwick Hall was completed in January, 1903. In the next year was the first Hall for the study of Textile Engineering. From the Class of 1910, the present Pasteur Hall was built to complete the northern side of the quadrangle. In 1937 this building was enlarged to the north, which since then has been devoted to purposes other than building the campus was very limited up to 1934 and is replaced the well-known features of the Textile Engineering Hall, and the present Storrs Hall Storrs Hall.

The Alumnae Association was successful in raising the sum of the sum of the Textile Library, which was completed this past year and is considered to be one of the finest of its kind in the country.

The Paper and Leather Engineering building marks the beginning of the first building to be built on the campus in 1895. This building is the beginning of a new quadrangle which is to be built on the hill, and in the rear of the quadrangle. The text is a future, it is truly a date to remember, the new building, as the date when the second large scale expansion program began at L. T. 1.

THE MILLEL GROUP

Millel activities consisted of the Spring recital and an exhibit of the group's work. The principal activity of the Millel group will be the opening of the headquarters on the 4th. In celebration of the four years, a special exhibit of photography, posters, and literature on Jewish and Hebrew is being arranged. A special feature will be the celebration of Israel's independence. An interesting exhibition of old photographs will be held in the auditorium, showing the progress of the Jewish people in the land of Israel.

THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS CIRCLE

With the Spring vacation over, one could see different shades of sun tan on several faces amongst the foreign students. A good number of them went South to Florida, Louisiana, and the Carolinas, and still the sunshine, was one of the favorite items in their enjoyment of the outdoors. These students all seemed to have found a climate here that was perfect for their experience, and they are all very happy. One party stopped in South Carolina to see a Chinese who was full of praise for the climate and the surroundings.

Anantha Selsby from India, B. C. Pop from Poland, and Jesus Ang from the Philippines, were very interested in participating in the pageant. Thomas Fane, representing China, gave an on-the-spot report. M. C.

Tournament Show Profile of Victorious Season;
Fagan Pitches First Textile Victory At Home Opener;
McKinn Ties Score By Stealing Home Against Teachers

by Abe Enis

With the opening of the baseball season last week, Textile has returned to the sports scene after an absence of over a month. The remainder of the season, however, is jam packed with sports activity, with four teams participating in intercollegiate play.

The baseball team has already opened its season, losing to Northeastern and winning from Worcester Teachers. The team did not look good in its win over Worcester Teachers. In fact the caliber of play was far below the collegiate level. However, there was an abundance of good material on the team and the poor showing in their first game could be attributed to several factors. The team faced Tony Neuman, and he showed that they could not be counting out the worst of any team they played. The team had had very little time for practice before and there was undoubtedly a great improve- ment as the season rolls on. Thirdly the injury to catcher Seymour Kramant and the absence of third baseman Bernie Therrien due to a placement interview necessitated the switching of several men from their natural positions. The fine showings of rookies Bob Walker and Eric Raymond and the return of the three seniors to the lineup is the schedule.

The outlook for the Lacrosse team can not be too optimistic after their 13-1 loss to Worcester Poly. Apparently the boys from Worcester have not heard of the proposed change of names. The team has already lost three of the most important players from last season and now the squadron is in lack of experience. Everything is not hopeless though as the Worcester team was probaly the top team on the schedule and as the season rolls on the team will pick up some of that needed material.

Probably the brightest spot of the spring sports here at Textile this year, or for that matter for several years is our golf team. Last Thursday they won their first match by a forfeit, 5-0 Suffolk. The match played against Holy Cross this past Tuesday will be highly indicative of the caliber of the team. The number one man on Holy Cross's team is Paul Palmer who captured the New England Inter-collegiate championship two years ago. Captian Frank Potocki of our team has already bested Palmer in match play. Last year if the team is to be loaded as advance reports have it, Frankie is likely to lead the team to several honors. The schedule offers enough top competition (Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Springfield, Tufts, and Willamantic) for the team to really establish itself. The Holy Cross team for example, has just returned from a successful southern trip and so a victory over the Cross would be no small feat.

The tennis team is a completely unknown quantity and we will have to wait until their season starts before we make any predictions. We can only wish all our teams the best of luck this season and we are really pulling for some big upsets by our golf team.
