ASSEMBLY SYSTEM MAKES IMPRESSIVE DEBUT

The new assembly system which features an open letter form grid is giving the entire student body during the hour of the assembly an opportunity to participate in an impressive start at the first regular assembly of the year. The system was inaugurated with a group of 350 students assembled.

Dean Williams announced Mr. M. James Powers, the new State representative of the Industry-Wide Textile Mills Council, to open the assembly. Mr. Powers explained that public relations for the textile industry is a comparatively new concept, born almost two years ago, and that there is still a great deal of room for improvement, for there have been only a few years of existence for only two years.

The new assembly system, which is dramatically emphasized in a survey of 250 students, is to be given a trial in the University of Virginia, Princeton, N. J., which showed that about 55 per cent of the American public thought that mill-worked clothing was about double the price that it was actually made and that 25 per cent of the people had never heard of the contributions of the industry to the American economy. The assembly system was first introduced by the textile industry, which has included the Textile Information Service as a member body since its inception. The industry is obviously interested in promoting the advancement of research and knowledge in the field of textiles, and the system has been arranged to be used by the students as much as possible.

The new assembly system is a method of approach including the copy copy copy of newspapers, magazines, and the latest issues of the magazines, regional cities, and others. The system has been designed to be used by the students as much as possible, and the system has been arranged to be used by the students as much as possible.

The man kind work, the W. NO recognized sharp Promotion he placed 1. society: Registrar was for one that had been obtained from three his hands: when El Greggs, a portfolio of the experiences for the execution of school, one 4.5 average. The portfolio was collected, of a drip, and put back on his desk by El Greggs. The portfolio was a marvelous piece of work, and it is hoped that the portfolio will be as well received by the students as it was by the teachers. By this time the afternoon had drawn to a close, and El Greggs was ready to go to class and to start another experience. The experience was a wonderful one, and El Greggs was able to get through the remaining hours in pleasant company. El Greggs was delighted with the experience, and he decided to continue.

The following qualification is required that the candidate present certain minimal average overage (we think that it is 80). This proves to be an impossible task now that we have the new system in operation. What is the new system? The new system has an average of 40 average.

The mail situation is that a candidate must have no failures. We believe that this qualification should be amended. It seems unfair that a student with a 40 or 45 average should be excluded because he failed one subject. Take the case of a Fredericks who during his adjustment period has the unfortunate of finding himself in this situation. We all know that there are many factors involved that cannot be blamed entirely upon the student. The present higher society input to this student? None whatsoever. Would he be recognized in his next three years developed into a 45 student? Not under present conditions.

Here are a few cases of men who cannot become members of the house society:

1. Seniors who received as many as 6 F's on last term's work.
2. A group of veterans who were at Tecile before the war and failed one subject after they had finished their course.
3. Again some veterans received grades as high as 90 in these subjects when 70 was the passing grade.

Receiving.

TRENT FISCH, sometimes known as "The Wizard of the tail," was telling.

"It was all a bluff about the weather and most important, it was all a bluff about the girls," he admitted.

"My pet theory is that the weather is a pretty big factor in the success of a baseball team," he said.

The next day at the field, the weather was calm.

Fisch was sitting on the bench, waiting for the game to start.

"I hope it rains," he said, "it's the only way we can win."

The game ended in a tie.

Trent Fisch was back to being Trent Fisch, and the weather was back to being weather.

A Message From Our Orchestra

The "Wrench" song of music that has been coming from room 301 of the school is beginning to make people think we will be a successful school.

Our first couple of meetings were spent discussing the idea of what to do. We decided to take it to the school board and ask them if we could play during our assemblies.

"We're not sure if they'll let us," Fisch said.

"But we'll try," his friend added.

The orchestra played for the first time in front of an audience.

Fisch was satiated.

"It's the best," he said.

Sales of No-Doze Take Tumble

Sales of No-Doze have dropped sharply in the past month.

Fisch, who is known to be an inveterate user of No-Doze, is one of the few people who still uses it.

"I don't know what's happening," he said.

"I used to take two a day," he remembered.

"Now I only take one," he said, "but it's still working for me."

---

The Phile

Early in January, the Phile sponsored a dance at a local club.

"It was a success," Fisch said.

"We sold out in five minutes," he added.

"We're planning another," he said, "but we need to figure out how to make it bigger."

SPORTSMILL

by Cherly Whitehead

Down in the wilds of New York State there has developed a game little known and little played, a game which few of the most ardent followers of the pastime can honestly claim they have never seen before. At Springbrook, however, there is a secret society, the A.K.A. Fresh, and after staying away for some time, they have been heard to howl and yell the 11-dimensional theory. The court rulebook is as thick as a Bible and contains every rule and regulation which can be found in the standard Freshman yearbook. The only thing this book lacks is the section describing their secret sport, except that the rules are filled with various notes of an official nature, such as "How to Play the Latest New Game." However, some of the most famous Freshmen to have mastered this strange sport have tried to smuggle these rules out of the book and have been caught red-handed.

The Freshman sport is played over the length of the Freshman year. The object of the game is to "catch" the Freshman, a very difficult task. If the Freshman is "caught," he is thrown out of the Freshman class and must start over again. However, the Freshman sport is not easy to catch. The Freshman is very elusive and can be seen running around the campus at any hour of the day or night. If you see a Freshman running, it is best to avoid him because he is very dangerous. The Freshman sport is not easy to learn, but with practice and determination, one can become an expert in a few years. It is recommended that only the most dedicated and determined individuals attempt to learn this sport, as it requires a great deal of time and effort.

JAYVEES Split

Two Encounters

Pulse-stirring suggestions from Lowell

Facts about the Jayvees have been revealed in the last two weeks, with the team finishing six points behind the Western Massachusetts College. At Huber College Club of Lowell and playing in a game against the American International College Freshman Football team, the Boston College Jayvees split three games. The victory over the Freshman team was a decided upset, with the Jayvees scoring 20 points to the Freshmen's 6. The team's first loss was a 38-7 defeat at the hands of the Western Massachusetts College, who scored 20 points to the Jayvees' 7. The final game was a 21-21 tie against the American International College Freshman Football team.

Pratt Edges Textile, 71-69

In the first of a series of games to be played against teams from the Northeast, the Jayvees scored a heart-breaking defeat of the Textile team. The final score was 71-69, with the Jayvees leading from the start. The Textile team was no match for the Jayvees, who scored 71 points to the Textile team's 69. The Jayvees' strong defense held the Textile team to only 69 points, while the Jayvees scored 71 points. This was the Jayvees' first loss of the season, and they are now tied for first place in the Northeast Conference. The Jayvees' next game will be against the Western Massachusetts College, who are currently in second place.
