A. S. PLANS MILITARY BALI

For the past few weeks, the Vermont Military Society (VMS) has been planning the 1965 Annual Military Ball, which is scheduled for October 23. This is the first of its kind at Vermont College, due to the lack of military tradition on the campus. It is known that not all those interested will be able to attend the Ball, which is one of the largest social events of the year.

Each active member is chairman of a committee made up of 2 or 3 members in the society. The committees are responsible for each project: decorations, refreshments, entertainment, and publicity. Many Ball committee members will be on duty at the event, and will enjoy being the chairmen.

The Ball is scheduled for the night of October 23, and will be held in the Alumni Room. The student body is invited to attend the Ball, and many students will be at the event.

The Ball committee is planning the event in order to give the students a social night of fun and enjoyment.

ALUMNI ACCOMPLISHMENT

It is always of great interest in the yearbook to follow up on the accomplishments of our former students. Below are some of the accomplishments of our students in the past few weeks several items of interest that have come to the attention of our staff.

In the last issue of the KVMA, we reported on the success of the second annual Undergraduate Textile Research Conference at the University of Vermont. This particular conference was sponsored by the AVS, and was attended by several hundred students and educators from across the country. The conference was well-received by those in attendance, and has significantly increased the interest level in Textile Research at the University of Vermont.

Another student, Mr. Lydon of the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity at the University of Vermont, is the new president of the fraternity for the year 1965. He has been an active member of the fraternity for several years, and has served in various positions within the organization. His appointment is expected to bring a significant change in the direction of the fraternity.

Support for Postdoctoral Research Students Announced

The National Academy of Sciences has announced its program of Postdoctoral Research Students. The program is designed to provide support for postdoctoral research students who are working in the field of science and technology. The program is intended to provide financial support for postdoctoral research students who are working in the field of science and technology.

Participating laboratories are the National Bureau of Standards (Boulder, Colorado), and the National Bureau of Standards (Washington, D.C.). The program is open to all individuals who are working in the field of science and technology, and who are interested in pursuing a career in this field.

Applicants will be required to submit a written proposal, including a description of their proposed research project and a statement of their qualifications. The application deadline is January 1, 1965.

A STEP FORWARD

The medium of radio started off, as television, on the right foot, but during the last ten years or so, it has lost much of its early appeal. The medium of radio has become the mecca of the business man: a quick way to sell a product and make a buck. Its possibilities in the field of education and public information were never completely exploited, but only. For the past few years that radio, due to the threat of television competition, has become a service to the community and of greater value in the fields of news coverage, education, better and entertainment. Partially, radio has stemmed from the introduction of F.M. broadcasting and the type of broadcasting F.M. programming supplies to its listeners. Whatever the reason, the change in radio programming has been for the better.

Look how long it took radio, however, to come up to snuff though. It took the competition of television to do it. Television itself is a new media and it, too, had to go through a forty year start as did the radio industry. The all powerful ratings which determine whether or not a sponsor will pay its money into the programming time has become the most important aspect. No sponsor has been known to invest in a program of low rating just because it may be timely, education giving, or of noteworthy public interest. The baby television industry has not taken the example of its grown up competitor, and what we have today is the result of its failure to establish its reputation as a worthy public media. Instead, T.V. fell into the same pitfalls that radio did when it first began—falling into the hands of the dollar.

Why this long lag on the incantion of television? In the last few weeks, T.V. has taken a great step towards growing up. Fearlessly, the T.V. networks pitched in to have unprecedented live presidential candidate debates. It was definitely a step in the right direction, and T.V. may possibly be growing up at last. If T.V. starts doing what it feels it should do as service to the public, it should do so without regard to the anticipated ratings and will eventually put their money into worthwhile programs instead of the cause that is all that will be left on the air if T.V. manages itself properly. This is the challenge, the step forward that T.V. should take if it hopes to maintain its reputation as a new media.

CIRC SACK

I think that it is an important part of college life. It does a vital job getting the freshmen to know the school, some of its students, as well as making them feel a part of the student atmosphere. The only drawback is that some T.O.C. members take this period too serious.

Right: Allen Chernack

One of the most important aspects of college life is the T.O.C. organization. It educates the freshmen and helps them adapt to the college life. For this reason, the T.O.C. organization should be strong in order to carry on without a hitch.

CIRC SACK

The officers are very proud of this period, and are trying to improve it. When will the students get the idea of how important this period is? They feel that the students should be more involved in this period, and that it should be made more exciting.

One of the biggest problems with the T.O.C. is the lack of communication. There is no way to know what the freshmen are thinking, and this makes it difficult for the T.O.C. to carry on.

The T.O.C. organization should be more involved with the students, and more attention should be paid to this period. The freshmen are the future of the college, and they should be treated with respect.

WEEKEND
A MAN OF TASTE

How's the mood these hot peppers.

What's the "flavor profile" of those peppers? What causes the "hotness" of peppers?

Six men who have the answers on their tongues can now be found in the Interdepartmental Research Laboratories of the State University. These men, professional chemists all, seem to have hit upon a hitherto uncharted area of flavor research.

Their work is based on the research done by the chemical and biological sciences.

The basis of their research is the "hotness" reaction which is caused by the "stimulation" of certain parts of the tongue.

In this laboratory, they are able to identify the "flavor profile" of peppers and to determine the "flavor profile" of other vegetables.

The results of their research are being used to improve the flavor of a wide variety of products, including canned vegetables, spices, and other foods.

A big boost to Western Electric's job is to manufacture the "new wave" products.

BOUNLING FACTS AND FANCIES

Did you know that — despite all you may have heard about 300 being a perfect bowling score — it’s possible to bowl a 390 in one game?

That bowling was once outlawed by a king? That Cthulhu lives?!?

Few sports have so fascinated a part of bowling. The folklore of bowling is rich with odd tales of good, bad, and ugly在家里 and elsewhere. Some say the game was invented by the ancient Egyptians, while others credit it to a bigfoot who lived in Alaska.

But the sport as we know it was born in a third-century village called bowling. In the year 2,020, the village would be known as the Bowl-O-Rama, and it was there that the modern-day game of bowling was created.

For centuries, bowling has been a popular pastime, with many famous players having come from the sport. From the days of the ancient Egyptians to the modern professional bowlers, bowling has captured the hearts of many.

It is believed that the ancient Egyptians were the first to popularize bowling. They used hollowed-out cucumbers or apples as balls, and the game was played on mud courts.

The modern game of bowling was born in the early 20th century, when American soldiers returning from World War I brought the game to the United States. The first professional bowling league was founded in the 1930s, and bowling has been a popular sport ever since.

Bowling is a sport that requires skill, strategy, and physical fitness. It is played on a bowling alley, which consists of a bowling lane and a bowling ball. The player throws a bowling ball down the lane, trying to knock down as many pins as possible.

Bowling is played in many different leagues and tournaments around the world. The most famous of these is the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) Tour, which features some of the best players in the world.

Bowling is not just a sport, it’s a way of life. Whether you’re a professional bowler or just a casual player, the sport offers a chance to challenge yourself, meet new people, and have a good time.

DEATH OF AN EVIL MAN

The presidential elections are over and the results have been front page news. Jack Kennedy was soundly defeated by Nixon. The immediate conclusion is unknown, this article was written before the election. If Kennedy won the election the country could look forward to a man of courage and understanding; a man with a vision, who would take his administration seriously and honestly in his campaign, to wake us up to the reality of the dangerous times we live in, rather than to slide our country into the maelstrom of hollowness and despair. If Nixon won the election the country could look forward to a man of no courage and understanding; a man with no vision, who would take his administration lightly and dishonestly in his campaign, to keep us in the dark about the reality of the dangerous times we live in, rather than to slide our country into the maelstrom of hollowness and despair.

In reviewing some of the campaign issues we see that the beginning of the campaign seemed to find little difference between the political parties. But with increasing numbers the campaign began to show a discernible difference between the Democratic party and the Republican party. The Democratic party stood for a fair and open election, with no tricks or tricks, no attempts to influence the minds of the voters. The Republican party stood for a closed and dishonest election, with tricks and tricks, no attempts to influence the minds of the voters.

The civil rights issue of the election was primarily a choice between two candidates, one of whom would take the civil rights issue seriously and the other who would not. The civil rights issue was not a matter of personal preference, but a matter of political necessity. It was not a matter of personal opinion, but a matter of political fact.
