WASHINGTON, Mar. 19 (INS) - Ike Orders $2,000,000,000 Anti-Recessation Speedup

By Alvin Spector

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19 (INS) - President Eisenhower today ordered an anti-recession speedup to the tune of $2 billion, calling for increased spending in various fields. The move, announced in a special message to Congress, was designed to counteract the effects of a recession that had begun to affect the nation's economy.

The president, citing the need to stimulate production and create jobs, declared: "The nation's economy is in a state of depression, and we must take immediate action to bring it back to normal.

The federal government has been ordered to increase its purchases of goods and services, and to accelerate the construction of public works projects.

The order also called for a $1 billion increase in the federal budget for the next fiscal year, to be used for various economic relief programs.

In addition, the president directed the Federal Reserve Board to take steps to lower interest rates and ease the money market.

Eisenhower's action was taken out of concern about the growth of unemployment, which had already reached alarming levels. James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhowers administration economic experts to work together on the problem of employment, in an effort to reduce the number of unemployed.

The federal government has already authorized by congress $1.5 billion worth of housing, slum clearance and water projects. All but 133 millions of funds and one-quarter billion dollars in unemployment benefils to alleviate the unemployment problem.

The order was hailed by labor leaders as a step in the right direction. "This order is a welcome sight," said AFL-CIO President George Meany. "We have been calling for action of this kind for some time, and we are pleased that the president has acted.

In the House of Representatives, Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., Democrat of New York, said: "This is a giant step in the right direction. We have been waiting for such an order for a long time."

In the Senate, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, Democrat of New York, added: "This order is a giant step in the right direction. We have been waiting for such an order for a long time."

The order was also welcomed by top business leaders. "This order is a giant step in the right direction. We have been waiting for such an order for a long time," said Jackaval Cohen, chief executive officer of the New York Stock Exchange.
